In Feng Shui, the dolphin is a talisman, which is of special importance and it really has great meaning.Ty bud.

I would say for you elephant:An elephant, an animal that people most often associate with a good memory and strong family ties,and much more than that.Widely known as an extremely sacrificial and sensitive species, the elephant has long been considered a symbol of good health, longevity, patience and reliability. After all, even the word "support" bears the name of this magnificent animal.

I would say [mention=2774521] is more of a Possum

Hehe I only saw a few people while skim reading that answered what animal they'd want to be thought of as. I say this after being one of the people to choose their own so ?
