I was going through my old computer the other day and saw this:

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

It brought back some nostalgia and I really wish the project continued. I was super involved and thought it was a great feature! Do you guys remember this project? How'd you feel about it?

Maskin - February 13, 2021, 11:17 am

Yes OMC should have been the bytes system we have today ?

Fun times really.

Fruitcake - February 13, 2021, 11:18 am

Holy shit what a coin! I remember mining it for days before the award came out :)

SIM-353284 - February 13, 2021, 11:25 am

I feel it let us down big time!

alas, bytes for next hf cryptocurrency?!

Orchid - February 13, 2021, 11:57 am

I liked OMC, I hate bytes.

Maskin - February 13, 2021, 12:09 pm

Also, I wonder how much money the developers of OMC made? Must've been good profit.

I would assume they made out fairly well. I thought it was a great project to be honest.

Yes there was a lot of hype.

If I remember correctly, OMC was only listed on Allcrypt and then it got hacked. The project started dying from there. This was a while ago!

That's right, it was on Allcrypt. Definitely a time or two ago.

I remember it and was just reading up on it the other day. Weird. Wish I got into it at the time.

I really liked Omnicoin, I learned a lot about crypto mining and how crypto in general works from it. Too bad it wasn't incorporated in tandem with the bytes system.

That would be excellent if we could somehow incorporate Omnicoin with the bytes system somehow. Maybe use Omnicoin for buying actual awards/donations/other monetary requirements and bytes for other things such as thread bumping.

SA777OSHI - February 13, 2021, 10:43 pm

What?? It was an actual crypto currency??

Yes, you can read about it here.

The good old days, personally I thought it had the potential of being a coin across forums not just HF.

But yeah, small coins have problems of being more vulnerable to attacks

?-Elision- - February 14, 2021, 2:06 am

Miss the old days there was a OMC award I believe as well.

Edit : I have that award lol.

I have the award too. It was definitely good times on here when it first came out. People were hyped about it.

Bring it back, that's really cool. Wish I joined the forum a lot sooner.

I don't think so.

HF or myself didn't develop it. It was a member as a fun project. In support of the project I accepted it for certain payments. I lost a lot of money because all those payments I accepted ultimately became worthless.

I'm sure some money changed hands but it wasn't like anyone got rich from it.

This use to be the old domain for it right, is this a completely different coin?

I sold the domain. Some ass-clown tried to sue me over it. I had first use rights for the domain and eventually we settled the matter amicably.

A lot of work has been put into it, then just abandoned.

I personally don't like the bytes system.

One day we might do a Waves token integration.

I remember in 2008, 2009 or there abouts there was a tutorial on here and we set our PC's up to mine btc and litecoin, my little PC was humming all night long lol. I do remember the omni coin not to long after.

Yep, Omnicoin was brilliant - until xflat and knar decided to essentially ignore my notification of the exploit. Hopefully there's no hard feelings still today, I was young and dumb and £1,000 on a silver platter was winning the lottery in my eyes.

Interesting to see this being discussed still, 6/7 years later.

You find me here today looking for any sort of trace of a BTC/crypto wallet I may have tucked away somewhere.

God bless.

Alright so share. What was the exploit then that was... exploited?

It was quite simple, really.

If you were to export your private key from their online wallet to your desktop wallet and then send funds from the online wallet, they would still be available via the desktop wallet - so you can just send them again, each time to a third-party address. Rinse and repeat until wallet is dry.

I knew the wallet was dry when I attempted to send a further 25,000 (I believe) OMC and the wallet simply didn't respond.

Imagine my excitement when I convinced myself this would work on Blockchain.info too...

Looking back on it, I know what I did was wrong - and I apologise if there's anyone about to this day that was affected.

However, I do blame the developers more than myself.

I forgive you! < jk

Thanks for sharing, I was about to ask what really happened.

I found an egg with this post lol.

I remember fondly. Good old days of scrypt coins lol

Net - June 18, 2021, 9:33 am

I remember when I used to get some OMC on a faucet site. I still have no idea who made it (Maybe the person who also made OMC?)
