Hi guys, I recently received some money (350 €) and I wanted to invest in cryptocurrencies.

I was thinking about getting:

60% Etheruem

40% (Stellar, Polkadot, Cardano)

what do you think?

Btw if someone can recommend me some YouTubers that talk about cryptocurrencies I would really appreciate it.

Grab some BTC 20% ETH 20% then a mixed bag of one or two with the remainder. BTC and ETH will go up overturn but unless you're putting in thousands the return isn't that great for small price jumps but still good to capitalize.

Reason you want to drop the rest on one or two "preferred one" is for faster returns and more gains and price jumps.

I've currently got

ETH 22.64%

ADA 18.53%

BCH 15.3%

BTC 43.53%

Oh nice portfolio, I just have a question like what you "see" on Bitcoin Cash?

Personally I think it's pretty decent, was obviously disappointed about the fork, but hopefully it will pull through. I've got about 7k sitting in BCH.

Waiting for the market dip.

But I'm planning to do

BTC 50%

ETH 30%

LTC 10%

XLM 10%

the dip comes and goes so quickly, hard to catch.

Place the buy orders at a lower price

True, but the market is overdue on its correction. It can happen anytime now.

I hope it dips before BTC breaks 45k
