Referrals don't belong in this section. Check instead here.

Do also note that the $20 you get from this site is not something you can withdraw right now. You have to wait until the ENA token is publicly listed.

Do you think that it will be publicly listed? $20 of tokens is a large amount to give away to every new user along with $10 for each referral.

I call bs. registered anyway :)

I'm a little sceptical aswell, but there is literally nothing to lose. From what I see, their site is built solely on the hope of spreading crypto knowledge to new users, by technically doing the same as Coinbase does with their Earn program. So I wonder how it's even going accumulate real value..

There are few more coins coming to the site, so I'm keeping an eye on it.

If they get their own coin publicly listed and open up for deposits and withdraws, then I'm withdrawing them asap.
