Thread: \$\$ SaaS Developer \$\$ - Pretty Simple with HUGE Potential

znc - February 20, 2021, 9:21 pm

I have a SaaS project idea.

It is an untapped market. It has HUGE potential, and is within a very small niche that is gaining huge popularity right now. I mean HUGE. Viral.

I have a rather simple idea that I know will make bank if we're quick enough and take over. I have extensive marketing experience - it will be very successful.

Payment will be discussed. I am looking to pay a small but worthy fee upfront to cover your time security, and I will of course offer a fair percentage to keep you on board to keep updating the service.

I want someone who is easy to work, has some free time, and knows what they're doing. This is a long-term project that will not take long to get going, but will be around for a while and need updating.

I don't know anything about coding languages, so I do not know what languages are required. However, it is a very simple idea that I'm sure can be done with various languages. More information will obviously be given when you contact me.

I prefer that you are willing to have contracts involved, as this really has huge potential.

Let's make some money. ?

Still searching, replied to a few inquiries. Be prepared to show past work and proof of experience! A few that hit me up have threads that clearly show they aren't very experienced (or experienced at all) with developing.

Hi, this sounds interesting, hit me up with some more details and I might be able to join you.

I have plenty of coding experience and I can code pretty much anyway.

You can find some of the services that I have coded on my website:

I am waiting for a response from a developer. In case he is not available, I am still looking for possible partners. If this may interest you, feel free to post or PM and I'll contact you.

3+ years of web development in e-commerce, would love to hear the project if you don't get anyone.

I am still searching for an experienced developer.

This is a huge opportunity, you will agree.

Please only contact me if you have proof of past work and experience. Thank you.
