

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: Yield Nodes

?Dødggygeez - March 5, 2021, 2:25 pm

So I have come across a promising passive income service which supposedly runs masternodes with your initial deposit. I'm struggling to get my head around a couple of things so I thought I would share it with HF for your opinions.

<https://yieldnodes.com/>
<https://yieldnodes.org/>

This is their youtube channel in some videos you can see users claiming they have withdrew in the past and it shows the dashboard etc...

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCTNUDZnc1pJU8GYURYsMtQ>

They support many PoS currencies and have acquired their own project named 'Sapphire'

<https://coinmarketcap.com/currencies/sapphire/>

Here are the reviews I have found on trustpilot, they all seem credible with zero negatives for scams.

<https://uk.trustpilot.com/review/yieldnodes.com>

I originally found this from Jon on tradewise.

<https://tradewise.community/yieldnodes-review-is-this-platform-legit-or-a-scam/>

They say you should expect an average of (around) 11% ROI monthly and they take 15% of them profits as a fee.

I am asking your opinions to reassure me that this is not an exit scam and is a legit service! I think it is very promising but I would like some other opinions. I will continue doing some more digging over the weekend. Discuss!

Omniscient - March 5, 2021, 2:41 pm

A couple red flags.

1. High yield.
2. Multiple name changes and re-brandings.
3. Trustpilot is notorious for fake reviews.

Looks like a scam to me.

?Dødggygeez - March 5, 2021, 2:49 pm

(Mar 5, 2021 03:41 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) A couple red flags.

1. High yield.
2. Multiple name changes and re-brandings.
3. Trustpilot is notorious for fake reviews.

Looks like a scam to me.
Thank you for this.

I thought it was too good to be true. Thank you for bringing the rebrandings to light I was not aware of this.

I have also found this from the CEO of tradingwise, who is apparently invested in this.
Quote: this is an unregulated investment as stated in my interview video with the CEO. I suppose there's nothing to stop them from doing something like this, but I can assure you they are doing what they say they are doing (i.e. investing in masternodes) so they are certainly not just piling up money ready to sweep it all away into a black hole. There is always a risk like this when you send money to a platform though, and you need to account for this when deciding whether or not to invest.
Too risky for me!

Docker - October 1, 2022, 4:25 pm

Reviving this thread because I wanted to open a thread of my own about Yield Nodes. It's going strong for the second year and haven't seen people complain about payouts or anything. Has anyone used this service? If so, what's your experience ?

RsGoldKing - October 1, 2022, 10:57 pm

(Mar 5, 2021 03:41 PM)Omniscient Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) A couple red flags.

1. High yield.
2. Multiple name changes and re-brandings.
3. Trustpilot is notorious for fake reviews.

Looks like a scam to me.
Honestly 11% APY is not really high. Blockchain does upto 8.5 % on stable coins. Compared to bitconnect which offered 365% APY its really mid. im quite parsimonious towards yield schemes, so not going to invest.

Docker - October 2, 2022, 12:09 am

(Oct 1, 2022 10:57 PM)RsGoldKing Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Honestly 11% APY is not really high. Blockchain does upto 8.5 % on stable coins. Compared to bitconnect which offered 365% APY its really mid. im quite parsimonious towards yield schemes, so not going to invest.

This is per month not per year the return you're getting. Currently it's around 5.5% in this market which is not bad and that can also be compounded which is even better

RsGoldKing - October 2, 2022, 12:47 am

(Oct 2, 2022 12:09 AM)Docker Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) This is per month not per year the return you're getting. Currently it's around 5.5% in this market which is not bad and that can also be compounded which is even better

So does blockchain
<https://support.blockchain.com/hc/en-us/articles/360043658491-How-the-Rewards-Account-works>

At 8% fixed aswell.

Docker - October 2, 2022, 1:03 am

(Oct 2, 2022 12:47 AM)RsGoldKing Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So does blockchain
<https://support.blockchain.com/hc/en-us/articles/360043658491-How-the-Rewards-Account-works>

At 8% fixed aswell.

It's annually rewards of 8% which you get paid monthly the portion of that 8%. Yield Nodes is monthly. Unless i'm missing something.

<https://ibb.co/N7H38Fy>

RsGoldKing - October 2, 2022, 1:31 am

(Oct 2, 2022 01:03 AM)Docker Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's annually rewards of 8% which you get paid monthly the portion of that 8%. Yield Nodes is monthly. Unless i'm missing something.

<https://ibb.co/N7H38Fy>

Hmmm "Rewards will be paid before the end of day on the 1st of each month." Seems like by this statement pyouts are monthly which can be reinvested back into the account for compounding interest. Beats me whatelse could that mean, but sounds like its monthly.

Docker - October 2, 2022, 2:12 am

(Oct 2, 2022 01:31 AM)RsGoldKing Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hmmm "Rewards will be paid before the end of day on the 1st of each month." Seems like by this statement pyouts are monthly which can be reinvested back into the account for compounding interest. Beats me whatelse could that mean, but sounds like its monthly.

They literally state it's annually 8% which makes the "monthly rewards" less than 1%. Back to my point, Yield nodes currently pays ~6% in "monthly rewards".

RsGoldKing - October 2, 2022, 2:21 am

(Oct 2, 2022 02:12 AM)Docker Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) They literally state it's annually 8% which makes the "monthly rewards" less than 1%. Back to my point, Yield nodes currently pays ~6% in "monthly rewards".

I stand corrected, it is 8% APY. Mybad

(Oct 2, 2022 02:20 AM)Focus Broken Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Who is paying you these yields? the borrowers through the exchange.

Docker - October 2, 2022, 2:32 am

(Oct 2, 2022 02:20 AM)Focus Broken Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Who is paying you these yields?

They are masternoding with the funds and they payout 85% to the people "staking" their money in the platform and keep 15%.

Docker - October 2, 2022, 2:48 am

(Oct 2, 2022 02:42 AM)Focus Broken Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So who is borrowing?

No clue what he meant by borrowing but noone is borrowing anything. You deposit money in there which is calculated as FIAT so volatility isnt your concern in the crypto assets. They use the funds you deposited for masternoding and they payout what i mentioned above as ratio. Payouts are in Bitcoin but u dont care about the price of Bitcoin since everything from depositing to withdrawing is calculated in FIAT.

DashPHP - October 2, 2022, 3:05 am

A lot of projects with similar goals have collapsed. They might run for awhile, but leaving it there may hurt them later on...

Docker - October 2, 2022, 5:32 am

Just found this video while researching more which is 2 weeks ago interview with the CEO and founder of Yield Nodes explaining how everything works, sustainability, etc.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8cmk0qiWZ1M&ab_channel=RicherinCrypto

Rug pulled.

Deposits and withdrawals paused with a long winded message talking about how fucked they are but don't worry they're restructuring and enjoy these NFT's for the time being.

Ponzis be ponzi...ing..

Spoiler (Click to View) Announcement

Dear YieldNodes Partners,

Due to the important and explanatory occasion I, Urs, am writing to you today.

Due to the current "crypto winter" and the general problematic economic situation (war in Ukraine, high inflation, high energy prices, weakness of the Euro etc.) we are forced to hedge our virtual assets with real and sustainable assets and to provide and manage them in a decentralised way.

Therefore, with immediate effect, we will restructure YieldNodes into YieldNodes Pro to ensure hedging by real assets and to ensure that our shared values are preserved in the long term.

The repeated blocking of exchanges like Binance and Changelly (of which are both still blocked) and the difficulties in lending our assets show us that it is time to implement the DECENOMY strategy as soon as possible and tie the value of our coins to real assets.

The general selling pressure has a negative impact especially on the prices of assets that are only based on monetary values and we currently have hardly any chance to cash out our profits from the Master Nodes. In addition, there are constant attacks on our coins, combined with the insubstantial statement that we are a scam. All this leads to the fact that we must immediately realign our strategy in the direction of DECENOMY.

We have shown through transparency, openness and real audits that we do a decent and good job as a team. However, we see that this is repeatedly undermined by players on the market who only want to gamble. We can only counteract this with real assets and applications that give all our partners the necessary security that they can trust DECENOMY and thus YieldNodes even in times of crisis.

We will implement this strategy through YieldNodes Pro. As many know, this has always been our plan, we are only bringing it forward because of the current situation and are starting the immediate implementation.

We currently have enough reserves, which we are now using to activate YieldNodes Pro. In doing so, we will integrate the existing and still to be developed real assets into our DECENOMY network and make them available to our partners via YieldNodes Pro directly or pooled as an asset.

The assets to be made available are available to DECENOMY through contractual agreements with various partners who strongly believe in our strategy and fully support us in its implementation. These are:

- 2 hubs in Germany and Malta
- A large photovoltaic power plant in Germany (11.5 MW)
- Several photovoltaic power plants in Italy and Germany (>2 MW)
- A large photovoltaic power plant in Iran (23 MW)

- An HTC plant in Germany connected to all patents (https://htcycle.ag/en/about-us_8)
- A music publisher and streaming provider in Germany
- The Mobolith project with which we can charge electric cars without a charging network and which also compensates for the disadvantages of the very volatile power supply from the sun and wind.
- Various residential, commercial and social properties, building plots and forests where we focus on sustainable construction and management.

The value of these real assets amounts to well over 300 million euros. The return on these assets is extremely high, but also sustainable. More detailed information with locations, economic and technical data will follow.

To be able to implement this, we will convert payments made and credit balances in YieldNodes into NFTs, which give a subscription right to shares in these assets.

Until these NFTs can be traded, the contractual minimum interest rate of 5% per quarter will be ensured. After that, in a first stage, we will create a possibility for these NFTs to be traded (Q2/2023). In a second stage, based on YieldNodes Pro (Q4/2023), we will provide a portal that will allow our partners to convert the NFTs into equity investments and receive the returns from the associated assets.

We have consulted with economists and lawyers. This is the best and probably only way for all our partners to continue to benefit from assets of value and it forms the basis for realising the DECENOMY strategy.

Some will be disappointed by us and may even hate us for it. But if you think it through, you will see that this is the best way for everyone to continue to get returns from YieldNodes and avoid losses. So this is only a pause of a few months, which is necessary for the restructuring.

We will follow up with more detailed information in the coming days.

Yours
Urs

Omniscient - October 12, 2022, 10:15 am

lol, was mainly all good to read except when I got to this part...

Quote:Until these NFTs can be traded, the contractual minimum interest rate of 5% per quarter will be ensured. After that, in a first stage, we will create a possibility for these NFTs to be traded (Q2/2023). In a second stage, based on YieldNodes Pro (Q4/2023), we will provide a portal that will allow our partners to convert the NFTs into equity investments and receive the returns from the associated assets.

Ponzi always being Ponzi-like.

I love it when Project A fails and they just tell everyone to invest into Project B instead. Crypto scams are fucking hilarious. If I lived in a 3rd world country, I'd absolutely go for it. Why not, these cunts don't ever get arrested.