I do not recommend it you have sensitive sinuses

I would of probably keep a little bit. lol

But I still recommend it.

You must not have gone deeper than 20-25 feet max....

Just like skydivin, scuba will give you serious problems the more pressure comes into play.

I agree it's cool, but know your limits

Just gotta take your time descending and make sure you regulate your sinus pressure and don't force anything.

I guess you had a better experience than I did.

lonneee - October 22, 2022, 9:47 pm

I hate cocaine dealers. Always sticking their business into other people's noses.

We recommend you take the time to read the HF Help Documents section. The answer to your questions should be contained in there.

Yeah you need to be a good diver to go a certain depth there is regulations you need to follow and special air tank equipment with special gas to combat the drunk feeling you get which has killed divers.

Step 1: Find a cocaine dealer. Step 2: Instead of purchasing, offer bulk sale. Step 3: Profit and bail out before you get shot.

That last step seems highly difficult to pull off if you have that much amount of cocaine ?

The crazy thing that people fail to realize is this:

That is some very powerful crime organizations product, and a lot of lives are about to be at risk.

Those who were in charge of the drop who messed up, definitely losing their lives and maybe their families.

Those in charge of getting the drop picked up swiftly, again same story

And lastly the diver who reported it could seriously be at risk for doing what they did. It's a sad world, and unfortunately these organizations are tan like businesses however with their own sets of rules and governing disciplinary measures
