I've been trying methods on how to Bypass The Admin Password protected PC but nothing.

1. Tried resetting but didn't work asked for password.
2. Tried going into CMD asked for password
3. Tried booting from Safe Mode with CMD and still nothing idk what else to think of maybe some of you great minds can lend a hand

Unfortunately the microsoft windows account is pretty difficult to crack especially if they have encryption enabled. Your best bet might be to find the password or if its a microsoft windows online account maybe reset the password

If this is a local admin account then it might be possible to remove it with Hiren's BootCD & NT Password Edit utility

Or just boot from a USB with linux if you need to for example backup data and then you could reinstall.
