Thread: Decentraland and Mana

Omniscient - March 8, 2021, 2:39 pm

I keep reading the name Decentraland on social media and news. Because of context I figured it was a virtual world based on crypto. The token is MANA. Basically part of the NFT space. Today I decided to finally take a look at the buzz.

<https://decentraland.org> Main Site

<https://decentraland.org/whitepaper.pdf> Whitepaper

<https://www.coingecko.com/en/coins/decentraland>

Already it's supported by a plethora of markets like Kraken, Binance, Crypto.com, and even Coinbase Pro. So that's damn impressive.

I don't think I saw a thread on this yet. Figured I would open the discussion. Anyone into this? I did grab some tokens today to test it out. I can't say if this is a good investment or excellent technology.

Starting to create avatar now. ?

ep1capple - March 8, 2021, 2:46 pm

This is my first time checking out decentraland! I didn't expect to be put into some rp game world after logging in with my metamask like wtf this is kinda cool lmao.

SIM-82498 - March 8, 2021, 2:46 pm

I invested in some "land" when the first launched. I wonder how that's going.

DrRespect - March 8, 2021, 2:49 pm

Looks like it's a virtual world with it's currency being MANA, don't know what to think about the potential of this.

Bear - March 8, 2021, 2:51 pm

A second life type world with its own in game currency?

Atari is on it!

Zoomers - March 8, 2021, 2:54 pm

Is decentraland the thing where their about to open a live casino in there or something?

Yep. Atari is coming to Vegas city on decentraland!

Neon™ - March 8, 2021, 3:01 pm

I'm a long time supporter of MANA and my love towards this token started around the daytrading communities because MANA was one of the best AB trading tokens. If you trade it for long enough, even now during the bull run you can easily make profit from it. Apart from that I liked the whole idea behind the project and have never seen anything bad about it since 2017.

Ch?z - March 8, 2021, 3:07 pm

They held lots of events/quests when they launched this time last year which were pretty fun, you could find loot crates that contained NFT's and tokens (some of which being really limited). I don't think there's anything like that going on at the moment but I'm sure there will be in the future. Still have 50 MANA and 125 MATIC from some of the crates. Also got some cryptokitties and wearables from them - who doesn't like free shit? :D

I also really like how there's a whole market for DCL usernames, that can be unbound from your avatar and sold separately.

BaldCunt - March 8, 2021, 3:14 pm

[vatopid=104]

bought some today.

Maskin - March 8, 2021, 4:04 pm

I had no idea this was actually a game? Created my avatar now.

SA777OSHI - March 8, 2021, 5:05 pm

If NFT keeps doing well, I can see MANA reaching $2 easily, feels like its following ENJ path, I bought some mana in January and made me good profits, then sold but bought again a smaller bag, I will hold for the next 3 months.

Kareem - March 8, 2021, 5:38 pm

perhaps one day the real estate will be worth something. I find the digital marketplace very cool.

krisj - March 8, 2021, 5:49 pm

I've been seeing some people create very cool HQs and general purpose areas. Some are games, some are literal crypto businesses with offices and gallery spaces. Tons of gallery spaces, so expect that to continue into the future with the current NFT boom. Cryptovoxels is another virtual space that is often used as NFT galleries.

Lots of room for growth in this space. I laughed at the concept of digital land when I first heard about decentraland years ago, really wish I had dug deeper then. The Atari news is super bullish.

Omniscient - March 8, 2021, 5:54 pm

Found this...kinda cool.

Omniscient - March 8, 2021, 6:08 pm

This video seems pretty good to see what's up.

Phobix - March 8, 2021, 6:17 pm

I've been watching the coin since early february... should've jumped in at .28 :(

Justin - March 8, 2021, 6:31 pm

Thanks for sharing it, really cool stuff. Will definitely have to take more time to read on it before I pull

the trigger though

Holy fugg ! back in the day (probably around 2010) when the Xbox 360 launched the "avatars", I was hoping for Microsoft to launch a game for the avatars that looked just like this, it was my dream, i was only like 13, but yeah this game looks exactly like what I was hoping for, looks great I have to give it a try.

Maybe Microsoft will buy the project and do an Xbox integration like they did with Minecraft.

That would be amazing, it would fit them perfectly, the avatars from decentraland already look identical to the avatars from Xbox, and they could actually make a decent amount of money with the micro transactions, project looks very interesting.

BalleJatta - March 9, 2021, 11:00 am

Kitaz - March 9, 2021, 1:43 pm

Remember looking into this project back in 2017, it seemed massive in scale and couldn't see it amounting to anything.

very impressed with the video of the game world and how much it has come, the idea is great and definitely something I see doing well in the future

Hadron land where PoW would be contributing to the data processing channels of the LHC? Maybe contribute to the collider's computing power as they make the currency? Might be onto something or nothing.

Sold it a 0.96cent, may go up more but from previous experience things that go up over 50% in 24hours generally retrace, unless it's a tiny MC, which this isn't

Of course they did. The biggest bagholder of MANA is Barry Silbert, who owns Grayscale and Digital Currency Group. That's why this coin is still somehow relevant, they keep pumping it via Coindesk (who is also owned by DGC), got it listed on Coinbase (which DGC is an investor in) and used their influence to get it listed on the tier 1 exchanges.

So in other words invest in whatever Barry Silbert is invested in

I did consider it. Seemed a bit expensive and I didn't really have a good idea for usage. I am open-minded about it though for the future.

If you're okay with HODLing some land for the long term I'd suggest you look at Axie Infinity.

They are a PVP game inspired by Pokemon and Tamagotchi, where you can fight your 3 cute Axies with people around the world. All Axies have different traits and that makes it more valuable. It's a #PlayToEarn game 80% of the revenue is distributed back to the community and the games people win get rewarded with tokens that could be exchanged with Eth.

People in the Philippines and India have been playing and making way more than minimum wages and living comfortably, it's legit impacting communities' life in a positive way.

Their Land is not released yet, so the prices aren't that expensive when gameplay launches land value becomes more + you can rent it out for events or if Axies land in your area you get some profits out of it. So pretty sleek idea, you should look into it.

Depends how far you're looking.

If the Global Crypto Marketcap grows to $20T-$50T (which it will) in a few years, a $10B market cap for a Gaming NFT will be something of the past.

Does that make sense?

Can shock, tho they seems to be most succesful in this so far and enjin sounds good too

thejkrules - November 25, 2021, 10:24 pm

I'm glad I came across this, I joined up. Its a cool virtual world, I haven't gotten to far into it to know much about it, I like the casino a lot! I used to play on this minecraft server that was a virtual casino that used crypto it was sweet. The only thing I dislike about it is I can't figure out how to send straight MANA to it, The only way I was able to load up my account was to send ETH to my wallet and exchange it. If anyone is familiar with decentraland lmk if there is a way I can deposit MANA, it would make my life so much easier than having to send ETH over and convert it, and I think it would be cheaper too. ETH has some high transaction fees

FYeah - November 26, 2021, 12:00 pm

Next big project worth looking into, with a MetaVerse niche is $REALM.. Whales are buying this up fast at the moment.

It still has an incredibly small marketcap of around $50 mil and is flying under the radar at the moment.

Could EASILY reach $500 mil marketcap in coming weeks. Recommend you all looking into it!
