

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Any keyboard/mouse brand recommendations?

Majen - March 8, 2021, 9:02 pm

I figured it was time to upgrade my keyboard and mouse due to wear and tear but was kind of split on what company to go with. I have used Razer Logitech and Steelseries before and I was thinking of going a little nicer, maybe try Varmillo keyboards as they looked quality. Any solid recommendations on a brand/what keyboard mouse y'all use?

Perciville5241 - March 12, 2021, 1:36 pm

I really love my Corsair K95.
Also don't forget if your keys wear out in the future and it gets full of crap- nothing that an air compressor and some new keycaps couldn't fix.
Essentially making your keyboard last a hell of a lot longer in the grand scheme.

Majen - March 12, 2021, 7:41 pm

(Mar 12, 2021 02:36 PM)Percivil Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I really love my Corsair K95.
Also don't forget if your keys wear out in the future and it gets full of crap- nothing that an air compressor and some new keycaps couldn't fix.
Essentially making your keyboard last a hell of a lot longer in the grand scheme.
Yeah, I forgot completely about corsair. I think i owned like the k70 or 75 I cant remember which, it was a great keyboard. I guess i just wanted to stray away from the main gaming companies. I have been looking into like Das, Ducky and Varmillo. And yeah I normally dust my keyboard out every once in a while but this time my cat had a couple of my keys cause of the lighting and completely ruined the switch and stuff. T_T. So I have to get another. Its just a logitech G910 i have had for a while.
thanks for the recommendation tho!

pwnedcrypto - March 25, 2021, 1:27 pm

You can never go wrong with Logitech, although it is on the bland side. Corsair and HyperX products are quite good.

Majen - March 28, 2021, 10:02 pm

(Mar 25, 2021 01:27 PM)pwnedcrypto Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can never go wrong with Logitech, although it is on the bland side. Corsair and HyperX products are quite good.
Funny you say that, I actually ended getting a great deal on a G915 tkl and Razer Mamba V2 pro. Even though I said I was going to avoid those companies, I was able to get those in person rather than order them; plus I got like half off so thats what made me cave. Maybe in the future i'll splurge for a super nice mouse and keyboard.

Grace Rose - March 28, 2021, 10:07 pm

I love corsair, I love razer, and I love logitech!
Shop Shop Shop =D

soulm8 - March 28, 2021, 10:25 pm

Depends on your needs and budget :)

I've played counter strike probably nearly as much how some members of HF are old :) tried every combo and its individual :)

Now im out of gaming and using logitech mx master 2s and 3 and logitech craft keyboard. Flow option is kinda needed for me because of flying from mac to windows every few minutes and that was something what pushed me into that combo, but if you are into gaming, maybe some hyper x alloy keyboard and logitech g pro mouse is fine :)

if I ever go back to hit some CSGO 5v5 to kill time i will go for that combination