I've never heard of it before; I just looked up some imagery. I might install it to try it out.

You basically have a lot of different islands - on these islands there are places where you can buy boats, clothes, stuff for on the ship (rum, cannonballs), an inn where you can play swordfighting, rumble, poker & more against bots or real people (these are puzzles, if yu smart then is easy!) You can also go on a voyage with a lot of people on a ship to sail the seas; when you encounter another ship you can go to battle. Basically your ship and their ship do the same puzzles to fight against each other, and the team who can perform the best in these different puzzles win.

I love old games and still play many old-school games to this day, so this might be right up my alley.

If you're into puzzles and enjoy improving your thinking and problem solving etc, this is the perfect game!
