

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: Bytes Farming?

evilgnome - March 16, 2021, 5:31 am

First off, I were wondering if there was an underflow exploit but it turns out it's signed so it just goes negative. I were wondering if there is any cheesy ways to farm ?ytes, i.e. making a post and deleting it will remove your bytes gained, but if you do it from API will it also?

IDK I just wanna know how trusted MYPS is & who has the biggest negative balance of ?ytes??

disclaimer: Im not trying to break rules, just thinking about investing in Bytes lol

ok so far I found out if you post on someone's thread, then delete the post they keep the points, potential exploit if ppl have a farm of ppl posting and deleting edit: closing the thread just in case, som1 reported it apparently ??

Omniscient - March 16, 2021, 11:00 am

(Mar 16, 2021 05:31 AM)evilgnome Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) First off, I were wondering if there was an underflow exploit but it turns out it's signed so it just goes negative. I were wondering if there is any cheesy ways to farm ?ytes, i.e. making a post and deleting it will remove your bytes gained, but if you do it from API will it also?

IDK I just wanna know how trusted MYPS is & who has the biggest negative balance of ?ytes??

disclaimer: Im not trying to break rules, just thinking about investing in Bytes lol

ok so far I found out if you post on someone's thread, then delete the post they keep the points, potential exploit if ppl have a farm of ppl posting and deleting

edit: closing the thread just in case, som1 reported it apparently ??

The delete loads the page dynamically. Try it and refresh the page to see your bytes. It should remove them.

And we can tell if someone is bulk deleting or spam posting.