Thread: Looking at a gaming pc on scan.co.uk 3k budget

TheMedigator - March 18, 2021, 6:50 am

Currently looking for a high end gaming pc that will be future proof for years to come.

Also looking for somewhere I'll be to easily change the graphics card when new ones come out etc in a couple of years.

I believe AMD is better than intel these days? Mainly used intel in the past but I'm not very good with hardware in all honesty.

Paying with crypto which is why I've put scan.co.uk as the site.

I could probably go upto 3.5k

Anyone feedback would be much appreciated as I'll be ordering in the next couple of days always feel I pick the wrong stuff!

Seems like most of the pcs are out of stock.

This is in stock, overpriced though. I'd wait a few more months for the stock of gpus to hopefully return to normal.

You should try and build your own, I think with a few videos you could do it and save a bit of money in the process. AMD is better if you get the new 5000 series, intel recently got caught in a 2 billion dollar lawsuit from stealing other tech for there chips.

Good luck.

I'm willing to pre-order an out of stock one and wait the month :)
