

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: People who brag about their mediocre kids

hayesh - March 19, 2021, 10:45 am

Did you ever have the displeasure of being around someone who constantly bragged about the low level accomplishments of their children. My aunt always does this. She took her 2 sons (age 14,16) out of school to work to support her while she does nothing. They do construction btw. She somehow thinks this is something impressive or requiring great skill and will not shut up about them. Neither of the two can read, and they write like cavemen. It trully is hell having her around

update:she took them out of school a few years ago and they are currently 14 and 16

TB12 - March 19, 2021, 10:56 am

I'd be more concerned about what that awful parent is doing to their kids

Tommie R - March 19, 2021, 12:51 pm

(Mar 19, 2021 10:56 AM)TB12 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'd be more concerned about what that awful parent is doing to their kids

Yeah. The kids aren't at fault here. Parenting gone wrong.

Juoku - March 19, 2021, 1:26 pm

That's horrible to do, I wouldn't brag about that...

As for others bragging, I hate it, I always said that when I have kids I wouldn't be one of those parents who brag about stupid shit or shows tons of pictures to people, and I'm only a father for one and a half months but I've been doing a good job so far lol

A Nobody - March 19, 2021, 1:39 pm

Her 14 and 16 year old are working in construction? When did she have them out of school, grade school?

LoremIpsum - March 19, 2021, 1:41 pm

If they are enthusiastic about their 6 year old already taking "his first steps", then don't be irritated by the idea of such a low quality performance.

Just see it as a positive thing. It might be the best thing they ever achieved in their lifetime. And Timmy's first steps are just the best the ever, for them, right now.

Like I love to see puppies, and expect others to be as enthusiastic about them as myself, others have that with their kids.

SIM-4923173 - April 17, 2021, 4:21 pm

(Mar 19, 2021 10:45 AM)hayesh Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Did you ever have the displeasure of being around someone who constantly bragged about the low level accomplishments of their children. My aunt always does this. She took her 2 sons (age 14,16) out of school to work to support her while she does nothing. They do construction btw. She somehow thinks this is something impressive or requiring great skill and will not shut up about them. Neither of the two can read, and they write like cavemen. It trully is hell having her around

update:she took them out of school a few years ago and they are currently 14 and 16

That can't be true because you need to be 18 years old to get a job in construction and people normally give out free beer. There's labor laws and kids of that age cannot work.

bk randy - April 17, 2021, 4:55 pm

Wait, how the hell did they get "taken out of school"? Did they get a GED or online diploma?

She's gonna have a hard time in a year or two when they start smokin bud n poppin E n xannys

Sorry you gotta deal with that.

On the side note, this is NOT at all what I expected when I clicked on this thread lol

Utility - April 17, 2021, 5:00 pm

How are they working construction?

If this is based around USA federal law regulates the minimum age a child can be to work construction is 16, unless its working for the office firms.

StarZ - April 17, 2021, 6:04 pm

Judging by OP's name and post etiquette, I'd say they are based in India...

Forensic - April 17, 2021, 6:06 pm

That's what makes me scared to have kids. They become all you talk about it and live through. Fuck that.

siddy357 - April 18, 2021, 12:14 am

(Mar 19, 2021 10:45 AM)hayesh Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Did you ever have the displeasure of being around someone who constantly bragged about the low level accomplishments of their children. My aunt always does this. She took her 2 sons (age 14,16) out of school to work to support her while she does nothing. They do construction btw. She somehow thinks this is something impressive or requiring great skill and will not shut up about them. Neither of the two can read, and they write like cavemen. It trully is hell having her around

update:she took them out of school a few years ago and they are currently 14 and 16
not good parenting as i would call it.

Lyrlei - April 18, 2021, 12:19 am

Just a parents thing I guess, but I'm actually not sure, if I had a kid I guess I'd probably try and say good stuff too, it's more like giving your kid a push for networking(at least thats how I feel.)

Pawnhub - April 18, 2021, 5:28 am

Seems like you have issues with the aunt not the kids.

Construction breeds men not boys and it's a hard life they will get plenty of money and experience. Trades will never leave you homeless and broke once you settle in with the work. I can't say the same for white collar jobs regardless of educational status.

Hell most educational statuses only give you a better starting pay while at the same time give you more debt you pay off like college.

ScorpionX - April 18, 2021, 10:39 am

The innocent kids have no idea their mum is messing up their future.

Psilocybinaut - April 18, 2021, 12:18 pm

This thread title made me laugh so hard, I think any accomplishment is a good accomplishment but talking about it to blow it up more than it actually is can get extremely annoying. Moderation is key.

Connected - April 18, 2021, 12:46 pm

(Mar 19, 2021 10:45 AM)hayesh Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Did you ever have the displeasure of being around someone who constantly bragged about the low level accomplishments of their children. My aunt always does this. She took her 2 sons (age 14,16) out of school to work to support her while she does nothing. They do construction btw. She somehow thinks this is something impressive or requiring great skill and will not shut up about them. Neither of the two can read, and they write like cavemen. It trully is hell having her around

update: she took them out of school a few years ago and they are currently 14 and 16
OH GOD, I feel so bad for those kids, Construction is bad enough as an adult, I can only imagine how horrible it would be as a kid.