Thread: Ban Appeal for Generation \(UID= 447404\)

GenerationAppeal - March 21, 2021, 1:37 pm

Hi Im writing this in an effort to appeal a ban on my original account.

My username is Generation, and the UID is 447404

Sorry if this is not allowed but i'm desperately out of options of how to approach this.

I was basically banned for doing a deal offsite without a contract. However THE only reason I did this was because the seller and I agreed on a mentorship on his method.

I was banned for 3 weeks, which is acceptable.

However in those 3 weeks, I desperately needed a label service to ship out some items. I wasn't able to browse without an account so I made an alt. Both accounts then became permanently banned.

I'm here asking for a revisit on this ban case. I've literally been a member here since 2010 and i've never had any disputes, scams, or issues on this site. I had an upgraded account and nearly 1000 posts.

Please please reconsider this ban.

I guess this one will be closed soon, too.

How do they say that? Three times is a charm?

You were willing to risk an aged, upgraded account over what, some labels? That's on you.

Not sure if this is a valid way to ban appeal, but I wouldn't really get your hopes up.

Because I needed to find a label service. It was really important. There are people here that literally scammed and they always get away with ban evasion.

I know I shouldn't have made an alt but I didn't know it was gonna make my offense worse.

I just dont get why a perm ban is justifiable; I'm an older user, upgraded, and donated couple of times.

How would I go about a ban appeal then? There's literally no other way for me to access the site and the discord.

We don't do ban appeals. You should have just waited out for the first ban to end and not ban evade 3 times and deal without contracts.

Edit: Just to add, when I found out you were ban evading for the first time, I closed the other account and extended the ban on your main. Then AGAIN, you decided it's a good idea to ban evade and now YOU don't think perm ban is needed huh? Nice.
