Thread: How much do you spend on Uber Eats a week?

Haxxr - March 21, 2021, 10:47 pm

I just started to use Uber Eats. Not going to lie, I am lazy nowadays so whenever I see a coupon, I take the opportunity to use it (especially for buy 1 get 1 free offer).

Now, it's hard to find coupons so I started to buy it at regular price (as long as it's buy 1 get 1 free offer). Not sure if I am addicted to Uber Eats, but just this week alone I ordered 5 times on Uber eats. Roughly around $100 dollars.

I was wondering how much you guys spend a week on Uber Eats. Anyone else addicted to buying food from it ??

SIM-3467872 - March 21, 2021, 10:55 pm

I bought 7-8 in this month. I'm not addicted but whenever I get hungry I order my favourite food.

Juoku - March 21, 2021, 10:55 pm

I always used Grubhub, never tried Uber Eats but then again I don't live in the states anymore and it's not available where I am atm

Neon™ - March 22, 2021, 3:46 am

I don't use Uber Eats because it's not available here, but I spend around 30 bucks a week for takeaway food.

Shrooms - March 22, 2021, 3:50 am

Never used it, I'd rather just cook my own food

A Nobody - March 22, 2021, 4:39 am

Can't stand the thought of spending that much extra for delivery usually, so I haven't actually used it myself.

Lyrlei - March 22, 2021, 5:32 am

Around zero ever since COVID, probably a good thing since I was eating bad food for awhile.

TB12 - March 22, 2021, 6:41 am

They always sucker me in when they got good discounts

N - March 22, 2021, 6:44 am

Maybe $150-200 a week on UberEats or SkipTheDishes.

SIM-4704770 - March 22, 2021, 6:54 am

Around 240ish per week, but thats for a full day of food.

Meaning 240 per week covers all my meals

Grim - March 22, 2021, 6:57 am

I'd rather not look it's probably way to much ?

That's fair enough!

I actually never heard of that! I Googled and realized it's Ontario only ? the price on it aren't that bad!

Do you guys have skipthedishes or any other food delivery services?

30$ a week is not too bad! It's a good way to reward yourself with different types of food :)

(Mar 22, 2021 03:50 AM)Shrooms Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Never used it, I'd rather just cook my own food That's a healthy choice! I'd rather cook my own food too but sometimes I just feel like eating food that I know either I can't make or don't know how to make properly ?

SAME! That's why I just wait for deals like 70% off or 30$ off or buy 1 get 1 free type of things :P

??? SAME! Especially the $30 off that is for new customers only

Ooo that's more than what I've spend in a week the most.

WOW! You are spending close to $1,000 a month but then again if you live by yourself and work full time it's understandable. I barely have "me" time after work + cooking

???? I say check it out and spill the tea! Why do I have a feeling you spend the most out of everyone here :P

Michael - March 22, 2021, 1:25 pm

Uber eats really has good discounts going on.

not addicted to uber eats.

Dripstur - March 23, 2021, 12:16 am

I try not to order through those apps more than 3-4 times a week. Just cost too much with the fees than tip. But probably still spend close to $100 a week at least 4-5 times a week, i do wish i could cook more.

Designerhost - March 23, 2021, 4:14 am

Maybe $200-250 a week on UberEats or SkipTheDishes.

Big E - March 27, 2021, 5:24 pm

I use a combination of Uber Eats and Just Eat for my takeaways. I tend to have at least one a week, and usually two to be honest. Early on during the pandemic I was using delivery services a lot, to be honest I absolutely dread to think how much money I've spent on food delivery over the past year! ?

neightworks. - March 27, 2021, 5:26 pm

Between the popular apps I will sometimes splurge on paydays at work so maybe 4 days a month tops.

I've noticed I have been spending more on uber eats since quarantine but I make up for it by refunding a couple of my orders lol.
