Thread: someone harrasing me with false allegations, what should i do?

Sammickey - April 7, 2021, 9:48 am i am writing this thread because someone on my thread and post wrote false allegations on my all thread that i took 5000$, without any proof and anything, even i don't know where it is coming from, (he is a new guy he has 7 posts all on my threads) how is it possible to cheat a guy who joined HF today....

i have Done Giveaways of courses and many thing but still today i have faced false allegation on me i have never posted any thread regarding SMS but he is still putting false allegation.

so please advise me fellow mates now what next i can do??

i am also requesting to HF Admins to delete such false allegations from my threads or do the need full.

HF Admins can also ask for the proof from him.

I am only available on Telegram :@Ravvan4you i dont use any other platform you can check my post and threads i.e i have never posted any other platform other than telegram. so you can ask for the proof or screenshots from my Id you can also find that guy here ;<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=4987755>

And be on your way. Delete your original posts in the thread quoting him.

I had a similar situation on another forum selling a product and they were just trying to extort free service.

Edit: and, If you did rip him off, shitty on him for not using a contract because he has no ground to stand on.

What separates HF marketplace from other forums is the contract system. Which protects both the buyer and seller with indisputable evidence.

i am very thankfull for your precious time and suggestion i will report that guy now

In the future, just click the report button and select a reasonable reason for the report. Do not respond to posts that you believe violate rules. Do not quote posts you believe violate rules. Click the report button to submit a report, then ignore it completely as though it isn't even there. Staff will remove posts that are policy violations as quickly as possible.

Also by using the report system, all staff members will see your report. Attempting to contact directly will most likely result in a longer wait time.

There is no need to contact admins or staff directly over something for which there is a system specifically designed to handle.
