They haven't accepted it, but tbf it's not a big deal since it was only 2 low level questions, just a shame I now have to go through the trouble of reporting them to their University for violating their academic cheating policy ?

It's fine, I have complete screenshots and the University they attend has already identified them and a fellow student by matching their handwriting, it's just a shame how they never dm'd me back, cause I would of taken $5 for the work I did. Instead they're now going to have to deal with their University over $5

He has been active both today and yesterday on discord, and promptly blocked me on discord within the last 3 hours, so he's definitely active (on discord at least), just refusing to communicate at all.

The timeline for it already passed, it's already been done for OP.
