The programs could be outdated because these are all stuff from my old PC, but definitely good stuff in here for everyone.

Reposting this because not sure if it caught attention, should have atleast something useful like a combo list or something.

Some of these files will pick up as a virus, but I can assure they aren't malware. However, if you feel like you may get infected, then feel free not to use them.

I do not own any of the programs myself so I can't really say for sure if they are completely safe, but my intention isn't to spread viruses so you can still find DBs and other stuff that are 100% clean.

The links are also safe, just shortened them because they were long anonfile download links.

Because I was like 90% sure that from how old these files were on my old PC and i was not infected, it should be fine but you made me skeptical now but I'm sure VirusTotal and things like that will pick up false things from some files that are not malware but just pick up as they do. I just dont remember which ones exactly do those.

You should be using this caution with any file on hf so i dont blame you but im just giving you the comfort most of these are fine.
