Thread: Duplicate Smiley

TB12 - May 21, 2021, 10:26 am

This is so very minor and really doesn't matter, though I did want to at the very least point it out. When you make a new thread or click post reply in an existing one you see a bunch of "Smilies" to the left next to where you type your message. There are two of the same in the selection, the laughing on the floor one.

Windows key + .
Will open you all emojis.

Yes I know that, but that doesn't have anything to do with what I am reporting

Oh shit you're right..

What's even more impressive is that it's probably been like that for ~2 years and not a single person has noticed. Now it's going to bother me every time I open that page lmfao

Just offered a workaround.

Work around for what? All I am reporting is that there is a duplicate smiley showing on the page, I'm not reporting a bug stopping me from using them.

It's sad because I noticed this previously but forgot to make a thread when I got home whoopsie lol lol it's the little things I guess you never clock, you've got a keen eye.

The actual position of buttons may be somewhat broken too, this didn't change on zoom level either, however this may be isolated as I didn't notice that either
That's strange, I don't believe I have encountered that

For the missing emoji that should have been there instead of the duplicate one.

Actually, side emojis should be removed imo. You have the full list on all platforms now built in.

Oh my mistake I didn't realize that's what you meant. What emoji is suppose to be there? Is it the normal laughing one?

I guess every other emoji that is not on the list.
I still like the old ones
