All recovery info included including OG email!

Does it come with all included creation details which can be checked with a MM holding funds to make sure the info is accurate? Like paying a MM the BTC and then him trying to recover the account using the details given to make sure its accurate info to recover?

I am seriously interested if the price is right i've always wanted a maxed out account without having to do all the work i just wanna make sure the account will never be recovered after buying i would want to make sure the info is correct only reason i ask is because usually people who accept OSGP for a account usually havent quit runescape and most likely would want their account back in the future.

There is literally no way to guarantee this account won't be recovered. The original owner can recover it at any time. You might have it for a year and suddenly it'll be gone - especially an account that's maxed. I'd highly advise against buying any RS account.

I agree, Even if he was to give you the email and everything what's to stop him from recovering the email, then the account. Lol.

Probably because I've been selling accounts for years, part of 2 big discords where I sell and on sythe and here. Yes because I wish to ruin my reputation. Not to mention I MM as well. Look if you're going to just talk trash on a sales thread delete your post and move on. People are notified of the risks when purchasing an account it's not for you to say whether they should or not just because you wouldn't. I've reported both of your posts

I agree with you Sanchez, just because some people have major trust issues doesn't mean everyone does. Nice account and GLWS
