Looking for someone to create a target.com account creator - most likely using selenium or puppeteer, but if you can figure out how to handle targets cookies and what not you can just do it with direct requests.

I have tried making it myself but I think they are detecting the automation and give some auth error when I hit create account.

Script will take in a list of emails - names - proxies, and then loop through creating the accounts.

Shoot me a price and your discord if you can work on this.
