Thread: Dogecoin getting listed on Coinbase \(BREAKING NEWS\)

They still did not listed it yet so you can go in the train for a short 30% profit (This happens on most coins that gets listed on Coinbase)

Not financial advice to buy it in the long term, it's pretty interesting what is going to happen with all market in red and dogecoin in a bubble that nobody knows when it is going to burst.

Bru6 - June 1, 2021, 6:04 pm in fact this was already expected to happen, but there was no pump as high as the market is falling

Lilith - June 1, 2021, 6:46 pm

It was certainly surprising to see Doge have the highest 24 gains of the entire top 100 earlier, but after hearing this news it made sense. At this point, I'm more surprised it too this long given how long Doge has had a fairly decent amount of consumer hype surrounding it.

Not really breaking news, it was announced a while ago, but trade at your own risk

Raymond "Red" Reddington - June 1, 2021, 7:12 pm

Dogecoin is a worthless coin. No future in the long-term, and neither in the short-term, expect for some quick pump and dump action maybe.

Forensic - June 1, 2021, 7:14 pm

The price has been slowing for the past 10 hours so it seems this news was expected.

G Eazy - June 1, 2021, 7:35 pm

Doge will be at $1.00 before you know it.

Lyralei - June 2, 2021, 2:33 am

I actually really think that DOGE will reach $1.00 just to spite the people that keep hating on it, and I'm not even a holder.

The_Boys_No_Good - June 2, 2021, 4:14 am

you can expect the price to tank once it hits coinbase/ the place where coins go to die

I'm totally agree with you. I have see that someone is holding over 36 billion doge... If this person sell all his doge, the consequences are very bad for the masket.

Dogecoin is only worth it for trying to make a quick buck. I'm only surprised Coinbase didn't do this sooner to reap some profits off the popularity of Dogecoin.

The sell orders @ $1 are insane also

Lilith - June 2, 2021, 7:42 am

DOGE hitting $1 isn't that unrealistic of a prediction. Between the continued bull run, general community hype, and the further mainstream adoption we're starting to see, it's certainly possible. Sure, it's a memecoin but it has major financial traction and longevity to it at this point. It wasn't more than a few months ago that the idea of DOGE hitting 10 cents didn't seem possible, let alone the rough 70 cents it did end up hitting.

shreder - June 2, 2021, 8:01 am

This is the typical coinbase listing pump, it's easy money.

CyberError - June 2, 2021, 11:39 am

I wonder how these all shit coin survived this brutal crash?

It's easy money when you get in and out.

Not even 24 hours passed and my prediction was right , it got even more than 30% up since the thread was created.

I have bought at the time of the post and getting out right now, the waiting sell orders at $0.90 - $1 are too much and this is after all a coin that doesn't solve anything in the ecosystem.

Wish you all good luck with your investments , and I will repeat this again: Dogecoin is nothing more than speculation and it should be not even in the top 10 of the coinmarketcap.

Omniscient - June 2, 2021, 1:42 pm

A $1 DOGE puts it at #3 for market cap. You'd have Bitcoin, Ethereum and then Doge. Does that seem possible? Sadly it almost does given the current circumstances. But I still believe Doge is bad for the market and that long-term it's not the best investment.

arent dogecoins created every minute or day or something like that too?

Dogecoin blocks currently reward around 10,000 DOGE and take on average about one minute to mine. At current rates, that's roughly 5.8m USD of DOGE being introduced per 24 hours.

I don't see it ever going past $1.00 in my personal opinion. It's going to hit $1.00 and then everyone will sell.

The whales will sell majority of their holding at 0.90$~ or just before 1$

That's 100% what I was thinking.

Ethical Vox - June 3, 2021, 11:22 am

It apparently already went live. But the price hasn't moved much. Actually it has gone down by a few pennies.
