Thread: Recommend sites to send anonymous texts?

Jackets - June 6, 2021, 11:19 am

My co-worker is going through a divorce and asked me if I knew any websites that are good to send anonymous texts without having to signup and go through any major procedure.

I can always signup for her if it's something easy, but what would you recommend?

Something that has to be 100% anonymous.

thanks everyone <3

Happy Sunday!

Not sure how safe it is but that's one I guess.

you can use signal app : signal.org

Signal or Wire, the second one is my favorite cuz you can sign-up with an email instead of your phone number

Hey man, There are not a lot of ways to send anonymous text messages, you can try getting an app that will automatically delete the text messages on both of the phones, but even that isn't one hundred percent secure, if I was in your spot and needed one hundred percent closed off secure anonymous communication, I would either use proton mail, or a tcp chat of some sort, but both of those require computers instead of sms you can try using apps like telegram but I don't think you can send anonymous text messages easily at least. It's better to use something else.

Try sending e-mail instead. lol
