Ok so I did not purchase from this guy directly but thought I built enough here to warn people in general, So first I seen his thread for FlawlessAim.com which offers cheats for various games, Thought some of the features looked cool.

He was offering discounts on the website and I thought it looked cool, I messaged the user and got this as a response

I thought this was weird to begin with due to the fact if you go to there site till this day it says this

Me being dumb I went to the site because the features looked really nice and I have yet to see them anywhere else bought directly off of there website

I got the week package for Modern Warfare

Payment page has shown(Payment Received) For countless days now without anything happening

They have a tawk.to chat there that is NEVER online so I have sent around 4 emails now without responses.

I have messaged the user here asking him what is going on here is the convo and then being ignored

Here is the blockchain to show it has more then enough confirmations

Here is also a pic of them

The only vouch the guy has is by ONE new member that doesn't look reputable at ALL

Everyone else says they have been ignored as well

Then digging into it I found some more reviews online

Calling someone out for a fake review

Here is some more reviews from trustpilot

Not too sure what is going on here but I think it is PRETTY clear, Be careful guys!

One of my friends just had the same experience. I wasn't even aware aimbots and shit were a common thing anymore. But this is definitely a scam site.

PS. Skrill is definitely affiliated and/or the owner of that site
