

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Filter for "new posts" button

SIM-1729678 - June 17, 2021, 6:01 pm

It's a suggestion, don't bite my head off, thanks.

I use the "new posts" function A LOT and I suppose others do as well. Something that has been bothering me is the amount of marketplace threads that have flooded the new posts function since the Stanley bump feature came out.

I think it would be nice if we can select if we want marketplace threads show or not.

I am unsure if the "new posts" link/page is based per-user or if the server just outputs one and the same link making this impossible?

Like I said, don't bite my head off, if it's not possible, all good :)

Blogger - June 17, 2021, 6:25 pm

I use New Posts a lot, too. Would be nice to just filter out Stanley's posts, but I'm sure the appeal to purchase shit from Stanley would go away if that happened, so I doubt it'd be a go. A filter would be nice though.

Lavish Living - June 17, 2021, 6:42 pm

Just select the sub forums you would like to see, then make those ones your favorites.

Then instead of clicking "new posts", just click "favorites" :)

Xerotic - June 17, 2021, 6:57 pm

Use the favorites feature that we made three years ago that accomplishes this exact functionality.

<https://hackforums.net/usercp.php?action=options>

Choose the forums you want to see then click the favorites icon (heart) right next to the New Posts link.

SIM-1729678 - June 18, 2021, 1:10 am

(Jun 17, 2021 06:57 PM)Xerotic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Use the favorites feature that we made three years ago that accomplishes this exact functionality.

<https://hackforums.net/usercp.php?action=options>

Choose the forums you want to see then click the favorites icon (heart) right next to the New Posts link.

Figured it out, thanks.