

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: Clarification on Reselling

SecureOp - June 27, 2021, 5:54 pm

Quote: Can I sell for other members?

Yes, we allow partnerships with non-members. If you're selling for an existing member you both cannot advertise the same service or product.

I'd like to attempt to resell a member's off-site service on this forum, but would like to understand how to comply/configure the contracts.

Is there a specific way to approach this? I considered possibly the 'Middleman' text entry field would be compliant with policy.

Or is it simply taking the contract responsibility for the sale?

flavoral - June 27, 2021, 7:00 pm

I would assume it's the same as proxy-selling for another hf user, you take responsibility of the contracts and any dispute.

Also, you make sure that you're not reselling for a closed member. I might be wrong, but I think it's not allowed to sell for closed members who were closed for DDs.

Staff should have a more clear answer tho.

webdev77 - June 27, 2021, 8:30 pm

(Jun 27, 2021 05:54 PM)percy Wrote: CITE I'd like to attempt to resell a member's off-site service on this forum, but would like to understand how to comply/configure the contracts.

Is there a specific way to approach this? I considered possibly the 'Middleman' text entry field would be compliant with policy.

Or is it simply taking the contract responsibility for the sale?

It is simply taking on contract responsibility and becoming the seller just like any other good/service listed in the marketplace. As the name proxy seller implies, you are still the seller to end users.

Omniscient - June 28, 2021, 8:00 am

I also suggest getting Vendor for full features.