

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: "Methods and Mentorships" Section

Lrrr - July 5, 2021, 11:36 pm

I didn't search if this suggestion exists yet, but if it does...my bad.

I have realized that the secondary sellers market is more interesting than the premium sellers section to me.

I think this may be a symptom of having a ton of ebooks parading as "methods" and the new get rich quick scheme the master class parading as "mentorships".

I suggest we make a section in the marketplace called Methods & Mentorships where theses types of things (along with other non free ebooks) might go.

That way, the Premium Seller section isn't filled to the brim with "make $10 thousand dollars daily" mentorships and has more room for threads like them ones on secondary sellers where members are selling 1 off really interesting things

junkie - July 5, 2021, 11:38 pm

I think it's pretty good as it is. :)

ghostboy - July 6, 2021, 5:37 am

I agree 100%, the Secondary Sellers Section has more to offer as far as uniqueness. Not to mention there is already a section for the gay ass e books , but for some reason its not required to be listed there?

Probably because they know there would be almost no money in it after a handful of bad experiences. Which makes you wonder why this shit is even allowed to be advertised in the first place.

Tyr - July 6, 2021, 10:11 am

(Jul 5, 2021 11:36 PM)Lrrr Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I suggest we make a section in the marketplace called Methods & Mentorships where theses types of things (along with other non free ebooks) might go. Has my support.

Lrrr - July 6, 2021, 10:21 am

(Jul 6, 2021 05:37 AM)triple6 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I agree 100%, the Secondary Sellers Section has more to offer as far as uniqueness. Not to mention there is already a section for the gay ass e books , but for some reason its not required to be listed there?

Probably because they know there would be almost no money in it after a handful of bad experiences. Which makes you wonder why this shit is even allowed to be advertised in the first place.

My thoughts exactly....maybe we just get more stringent on where shit like "methods" and "1 on mentoring" go. Maybe services for mentoring and ebooks for methods.

Xerotic - July 6, 2021, 11:15 am

The Premium Sellers Section is a general marketplace section for upgraded members. Except for few notable exceptions outlined by policy (such as Currency Exchange being the home for all currency exchange threads), the PSS can contain almost anything allowed by policy and not forced into another section. An example would be the PSS being a popular section for Ebooks even though Ebook Bazaar exists.

I say this because a new section wouldn't necessarily mean that PSS would have less of these types of threads unless one of two conditions are met:

Existing and future sellers decide that this new section would be better for their sales.

A new policy is put in place in which money making methods would have to be in this section.

The first option isn't a guarantee. The second option would require new site policy.

Something to think about.

Omniscient - July 6, 2021, 12:47 pm

Not interested. How it is, is fine.

triple6 Wrote:Which makes you wonder why this shit is even allowed to be advertised in the first place.

STFU and 1 month ban. I am not interested in your opinion about what's allowed here. I should close your account.