Thread: Crazy story my grandma told me

Mr.Cat - August 12, 2021, 11:03 am

Warning some people might not want to read this.. Its kinda scary, disgusting.

So my mother started telling me about this story from when she was 12 years old... She told me that a friend of my grandmas one day called panicked and was screaming to get my grandma on the phone. It was an old lady at her 80 who had a farm and a lot of goats. She was telling my grandma to come to her house quick because she was going to have a heart attack from what she is seeing.. So my grandma got ready to go to her house and my mom wanted to go with her so she took her with her. When my grandma arrived the lady was still panicking and told my grandma to not bring my mom in the back yard because she should not see this. So they told my mom to stay there and went to the backyard. There, was laying a baby goat that was just born but with a human head and a face of a human baby. My grandma screamed what is this monster, devil.... My mom told me she remembers them screaming that. The creature from what my grandma told me was alive and moving its mouth and legs laying down. I asked her, maybe it just looked human, maybe it was a hairless mutated goat or something but my grandma was insisting that it was exactly like a humans baby head with some hear in the head and everything.. My mom at some point because she was very very curious told me she looked but was also very afraid so she told me it looked like a goat with a human head but she didnt look at it for long because she got very scared. Then the lady was screaming what do we do, what do we do!! They were thinking of calling the police but they called the priest of the area and told him about it and asked him what to do now. The priest asked them if they were sure it was a human head and they both told him 100%.. So he told them to not call the police and dig a hole because it wont live for long and to tell no one. Then he told the lady some stuff my grandma couldnt hear. My grandma was telling her to not bury it alive for some reason (lol).. Then she told her to cover the head with something because she couldnt look at it. it. I asked my grandma if the eyes had square pupils because i know goats are the only animals with square pupils and she told me no, they were circlish like that of a human. So then my grandma left after digging a hole and she doesn't know what the lady did after.

So the goat that gave birth to it was apparently send to a farmer at some point and later on after a few years this guy went to prison but they dont know the reason.. They believe this guy was fking goats. My grandma doesnt lie because she is religious and my mom too so its pretty wierd.. The fact that they told me the creature was even alive and it was moving its mouth is disgusting. After that i thought about Greek mythology and the creatures it describes and it got me thinking that maybe some of them could be real.

What the fuck did I just read?

Gliese 667Cc - August 12, 2021, 1:46 pm

Phones in villages in [probably]1970s? Goat with a baby head? Told by an online stranger?

No, i don't believe in this. By no means possible could a creature like this exist. Anatomical structure is so different.

Scoppa - August 12, 2021, 2:33 pm

It's a terrible day to have eyes.

Well, that's Beastiality taking a completely different turn here. I only wonder how ManBearPig was conceived now.

Silkroad - August 13, 2021, 2:26 am

I've heard a story very similar to this before, sounds like something out of a movie.

Obviously there is such thing as a half goat half baby, haven't you ever seen 'The Fly'?

Fortunate - August 14, 2021, 1:48 pm

That sounds horrible. That dude was fucking goats for sure. Actually a believable story.

Honestly this is the first thing that came to my mind while hearing the story.. I find it impossible it had an actual human head but my grandma is like super sure it had a baby head and it wasnt simply deformed... Idk tho. This site says its impossible but if i google it says something about pig human hybrids and stuff...
