How about instead of Fascism, we could have Fashism? An ideology centered around fashion? Yeah.....everyone would be encouraged to be fabulous as heck, and everyone would be rich, but the richest people would be those who come up with new fashion ideas.

I got this idea from a mural on the side of a shopping mall where I live. The mural depicted three happy women in an eccentric pose, and they were haughtily dressed and holding shopping bags.

I think society could use a rest from its usual mechanistic order. The "fashion world" (literally) would be colorful and chaotic, and people would be happier, I think.

I think you deserve the LGBTQT award.

Pretty sure you just described a major facet of modern culture around the capitalist world, but alright.

This does exist currently only not as extreme as you'd like.

Most of the people who inherit or make their way into the top help themselves with some gifts so as to look good may be they are the exceptional ones.

Why though, some people like this and have a interest for it.
