Honestly pretty curious to see what gets you all going everyday. What brings you joy or will bring you joy in the future.

Nothing specific, waking up each new morning. The sun is coming up, and I can do whatever I want for the day for the most part. Even on a bad day, at least I'm not in jail.

Passion o.o

When you are so passionate about something, you will think about it all the time. You will be willing to wake up early and sacrifice your sleep for it. This is why passion is important because it can drive you each day to achieve what you want in life.

You just need to actually find it

Family, friends, and passion.

My drive to live? A quest for adventure, love, friendship, and companionship come to mind. I want success and riches in life and I work my ass off every day to achieve more in my life. After a decade of drug abuse I want so much more in my life. I aim for happiness and security within my own life.

Maintenance of good relationships, creations of new and building valuable skills.

Fucking around is also good.

All depends.
Family will be around, they'll be fine.
Most friends are temporary, some are family.
Some family are temporary, some are scum.
All depends.

I-I - August 22, 2021, 11:57 pm

My family pretty much.

I don't really care to live because I'm know I'm just gonna die. The fear for dying is very strong in me, if I wasn't so afraid or so loved by my family, I'd probably just end it already.
