With this tool, you can capture screenshots of web pages really easily and faster. As a bug hunter or an ethical hacker you can save a lot of time in the enumeration part. You can run this in the background and focus on your custom exploitation.

Put up some clap if you liked the tool and follow for more tools like this. ?

I would recommend anyone using this tool to compare the geckodriver and chromedriver signatures with the one on the official page first. User has a 50% warning level and his account is pretty new.

Don't trust any software, even if you have the source code, unless you went through all the source code. Not accusing you of anything here OP, just a general disclaimer.
