Thread: Simulation CONFIRMED?!

Spiritual - August 29, 2021, 1:21 am

Alright guys so I was scrolling on TikTok and I saw a video about unscrewing a Bluray device for its 1tb hard drive and it reminded me of opening up my ps3 to try and clean it and I was typing "Be careful the metal is actually pretty sharp I got a scar from it on my hand."

before sending the comment i looked at my hand where the scar was but IT WASNT THERE so i was like hm maybe i just looked at the wrong finger. NOPE then I thought to myself maybe wrong hand... AGAIN NOPE it's literally gone when before it was really obvious I had a scar there before. and I know for a fact scars don't just disappear like that.

well guess i must of reality jumped or some weird Mandela effect because my life has drastically changed in the last year so idk just thought I'd share the mind fuck with yall.

For a real mindfuck (CIA declassified files- no longer findable for some reason)

Hard to comprehend, but nothing but the truth.

such life and the saddest thing you cant escape it, when I attempted suicide few times I just woke up in the next morning and the reality was slightly changed

LeetSpeed - August 30, 2021, 11:16 am

OP did you end up finding that scar?

cig - August 30, 2021, 11:27 am

Damn y'all are tripping, it's too early in the afternoon for this

ThinWhiteDuke - August 30, 2021, 3:12 pm

If the scar was real there'd be blood stains somewhere find the blood stains there's your proof

Goku - August 30, 2021, 3:35 pm

You do realize that scars do heal over time?

Of course, we can overcomplicate things and say that it's the Mandela effect hehe

Lyrlei - August 30, 2021, 3:56 pm

I think this has happened to me more than once already and I'm not happy. I'm sure it's just your brain fkn with you.

False King - August 30, 2021, 3:59 pm

You probably tripping, OP. They do heal over time (even though never fully heal). Also depends on the type of scar.

Exactly, I had 2 scars that healed up completely, one(that was quite bad) is still waiting for it.

I have had one scar above my eye for my almost whole life. It never disappeared and I had it ever since I was like 6. Real scars don't really disappear. I guess what OP meant though is that he had just looked at it not too long ago and now it is gone. I also had some scars I thought would stay, but they got kind of 'lighter' after some time. So I can still see them, but they are not like real scars. You can still see it though, it's a little strange.

But, I remember it being way more pronounced.

I jokingly said what I said because OP jumped to the conclusion that we live in a simulation, rather than thinking that he might have not looked at the scar for some period of time and discovered it to be gone later.

Nevertheless, scars do heal. But of course, if they are deep enough it would take a live time for it to vanish.

Luckily, most of my scars healed. But my biggest scar, which also is one I got from a fight with my dad, is still vaguely there.

I've noticed a few videos on YouTube exposing evidence. Not sure how credible this channel is but check them out:

the important question is how high were you when you experienced this?
