Thread: Getting rid of online footprint.

So im wanting to start deleting my online footprint as much as possible. Ive been an active PC gamer since around 2005 so im guessing thats around when I started to make my footprint online. Obviously thats along time with alot of history. Is there a website or tool or a method that could help me find websites ive signed up on so that I can start deleting my old accounts?

Not sure if your tech savy or not and what OS your using. But if your comfortable with linux or other another OS there's a few tools called Sherlock and Userrecon that both help find websites you've registered with using a email or Username.

If you need more help or need any assistance feel free to Hmu?
