Thread: Looking for a SERIOUS partner \(i have a few projects that i need a partner for\) o2o3 - September 3, 2021, 5:59 pm

Hey guys

I am currently on the search for a partner.

I have several projects i work on such as: I own a advertising agency, I own a social media engagement shop, and i own a product testing group

What i am looking for

I am looking for a partner who has lots of free time and knowledge

I treat these projects as a job and i expect my partner to do so as well

I expect my partner to be motivated and willing to work with me almost every day for at least 3 hours

If you are serious about working together and making money then please answer these few questions:

Questions

1. Why should I be partners with you?

2. What are your skills?

3. Do you have any experience with the type of work i mentioned above

4. How many hours per day can you work

5. Which country are you from?

Please, no time wasters. I have a large amount of money invested into all these projects and i am looking for serious people only.

Partner will earn 50% of whatever revenue we bring in together

Why should I be partners with you?

I run my own software agency, and can build anything from small websites to big mobile applications with custom payment integrations.

What are your skills?

I mainly do software development, but I do also have experience in cyber security and penetration testing.

Do you have any experience with the type of work i mentioned above

Not anything related to SEO, marketing and such, sorry.

How many hours per day can you work

3 hours a day, including weekends.

Which country are you from?
Denmark
