Thread: Anyone who runs Memes Instagram

Geass - September 6, 2021, 10:40 pm

I'm looking for someone who runs a Memes Instagram to help me out with a few questions regarding copyrights (if someone copies my images) and what account type should I open (personal/business)

Not really much you can do if someone copyrights your image. Instagram is already cracking down on accounts that mostly post memes so getting reported/reporting/drawing any unwanted attention might not be a good idea. I had my account closed over a year ago and never returned.

So if I report other Instagrams with my images, doesn't it help if I have the same one before them?

Also, what account type? Business or personal? :)

If they copy your image then use it to your advantage. Send them a friendly message asking if they could at least credit you. They may not do it, but if they do then you got yourself a nice shout out.

I would go with personal to attract less attention as a business insta is going to be looked at more closely.
