Thread: [\[Cryptocurrency\] Official HF Group Recruitment \[Open Recruitment\]](#)

Neal Caffrey - September 11, 2021, 6:21 pm

Keeping this short, simple and sweet. I'm recruiting members for an official HF group (Terminal will be re-branded post-recruitment). The purpose is to upskill, share trade ideas and stay up to date with cryptocurrency and market trends in our private sub-forums and via Discord.

If you answer yes to any of the below questions, fill out the form below and I'll DM you for more information if required. Have you deployed your own trading algorithm (not someone else's product) in live markets with real capital?

Do you have investments in more than three different crypto ecosystems/chains?

Have you made more than 5x in the last 3 months?

Questions to answer: Elaborate on which criteria you satisfy in the above list.

What tokens are you currently invested in?

If you had $100k in deployable capital today with no constraints on investment methodology, how would you deploy it and why?

I do not plan on taking more than a dozen or so people at this stage.

neightworks. - September 11, 2021, 6:25 pm

Are there even a Dozen people here with a 500k portfolio that are still active?

Biggy - September 11, 2021, 6:29 pm

Good luck with the group, Neal.

Yeah they've worked out quite well over the last few months ?

Not a full-time job, just want people who are keen to bounce trading and strategy development ideas around with. The only requirement to be a member is that you have a history in cryptocurrency OR trading and a proven track record.

That's why there's other criteria to join under. You're probably limited by your own cognitive bias where you think 'I haven't made money, so no one else has made money either', which is pretty hilarious.

Dawg I'm just saying that $500k need to be removed just sound ehh I wouldn't want nobody on a forums to know I have $500k in crypto.

I haven't made money? Funny.

Are you not a trust fund kid?... Imma leave it be, congrats with the old group graphics and name for a new group. Looking forward what you bring to crypto section.

Zoomers - September 11, 2021, 7:32 pm

I guess I will be the first one to fill it.

I have done multiple 10x + on mostly large caps, also if you are Counting NFTS/Memecoins/ and ecosystem/dapp tokens then that too

I am invested in Ethereum/Solano/BSC/Matic. I like trying each things out and mostly ones without tokens as there is always hope for an airdrop

What tokens are you currently invested in? My Majority of my port is Bitcoin / Delta RLP/ and Radix / Cosmos / Eth / and Harmony

If you had $100k in deployable capital today, how would you deploy it and why? Firstly I would look at the market and its current conditions. If I am thinking short term and midterm then I would invest in 60% Delta RLP, 20% Harmony, and 10% Cosmos, and lastly 10% on Radix

If starting fresh with $100k I'd invested depending on market conditions, I'd wait for a dip or stable market and would not FOMO at ATH prices.

50% BTC - BTC is King

20% ETH - ETH gas fees suck but it's the king of smart contracts and I doubt it will be replaced anytime soon

10% DOT - Has yet had it's run in the bull market compared to ADA and SOL + auction announcement could happen soon

10% CAKE - 22nd September NFT marketplace launches, I expect CAKE to increase.

10% XRD - Even though the XRD unlock kind of sucked I believe in the technology and would hold for 3-5 years. (I'd invest the XRD after the unlock)

Hey, I am interested

Elaborate on which criteria you satisfy in the above list.

I am invested in multiple ecosystems, not yet a x5 maybe in the future (got a x2 few days ago, still holding)

What tokens are you currently invested in?

MOVR - got my original investment out, still in with my profit

BTC

If you had $100k in deployable capital today with no constraints on investment methodology, how would you deploy it and why?

100% BTC until I see a token that is still early and worth investing in

I would get 15-30% depending on current market prices in staking USDC until a market dip comes around. Most likely less since I don't think we will see huge dips at the moment.

We will assume that the rest of my capital is 100% in the example below
BTC 25% in staking (Always good to have BTC and it's a long-term hold)
ETH 25% in staking (Doesn't have enough to stake alone but in a pool would be optional)
SOL 10% in staking (Solana has a lot of things coming forward, I think the project can do better price-wise)
BNB 10% (China knows how to compete and grow, I think it's a solid bet)
COPE 10% (You shouldn't marry your bags but COPE has a lot of things no other coin on the Solana eco-system doesn't have. I love the dev and team behind it!)
SRM 5% (SBF fanboy here, I think SRM can do 10x from here very soon)

The rest of the 15% I would split evenly in
FTM, FTX, ADA, RAY, RUNE & XRD
I'd pick these because I follow a lot of people who are invested and has done a lot of research on these projects. I haven't done nearly as much on all of them but I think they are great bets for a good return, even in an eventual bearmarket.

Cool idea to link up with other experienced crypto traders, there's money to be made in this market ?
Waiting for a hodler group ?

In?sane? - September 13, 2021, 7:53 am

Neat, flying solo can only take you so far.

Quote:•Do you have investments in more than three different crypto ecosystems/chains?
Yepp.

Quote:•Have you made more than 5x in the last 3 months?

No, I got back into crypto again just a few weeks ago. Was heavily into crypto around 2018 and had a nice portfolio that would be worth a lot today if I just would have HODL. Pretty much ignored everything Crypto after I sold, now I am back into it with no feelings attached to the money I invest and. Thankfully it's still early and there is tons of opportunities to make bank easily, it's just a matter of time.

Quote:•What tokens are you currently invested in?

BTC, ADA, SOL, ETH, NETVRK, AVAX and deep into NFT projects I believe will moon hard.

Quote:•If you had $100k in deployable capital today with no constraints on investment methodology, how would you deploy it and why?

50% BTC for long term, it comes less and less volatile over time and I think it will become a stable coin and a great stable HODL for the future. 25% into NFT projects, mainly game projects that looks promising, buying land and items etc. Flipping NFTs is ez money. The remaining 25% would be for experimentation and risky investments and some alt coins I guess.

darkair - September 15, 2021, 12:44 am

Elaborate on which criteria you satisfy in the above list. : - I use DCA bots at the moment, i know its someone's SAAS product BUT the strategies are mine and it's been working good for me (i made bank specially since i take profits in alts idc about stacking fiat)

What tokens are you currently invested in? :- ETH, Terra, BTC, XRD (in that order) i have other coins stacked on exchanges but i don't hold them for long

If you had $100k in deployable capital today with no constraints on investment methodology, how would you deploy it and why? :- $50k straight into my DCA bots because it has proved to work wonders so i would put most into that $10k into alts that i want to stack up more (mostly radix yes i'm kinda obbsessed with it) and remaining into either my bank deposits which pays 5% annually or my stable coin deposits which pay 12% i know 12% seems like the better option but my bank deposits my interest into my bank every month, while the stable coin deposit is locked quarterly and also i have enough locked in it, so i might choose my bank deposit

crypto_kid - September 19, 2021, 4:35 pm

I'm a new lurker on HF (literally first post) but was intrigued by this idea. I tried to start something similar with a few friends in early 2017. Wasn't able to get it off the ground and I went back to managing my own funds.

Regarding qualifications:

1. I've had crypto accounts for a while. Was using Vircorex exchange way back when (2014-2015) and other P2P sites to buy BTC and LTC. Vircorex got hacked right around the Mt Gox hacked, so goodbye everything. Didn't have cold wallets setup like an idiot.
2. Built an arbitrage bot around 2016-2017. I'm a shit programmer but nonetheless enjoyed building the bot nights and weekends. I connected to something like 65 exchanges and could arbitrage across a few thousand trading pairs. It went live and made a few bucks, but maintaining the code was a shitshow and I couldn't dedicate time to it. A few friends were interested in getting involved but by the time I could get back around to it, fees had increased / CEX transaction time was longer, and the trading logic required revisiting. My logic for it is still viable, but opportunity is eroding crypto matures / moves to DEX, plus I don't have the skillset for any "real" development. I stopped building and went back to investing. I also used ProfitTrailer for a while around 2016ish.
3. I've invested in a lot. Hundreds of different pairs (personally, not programmatically - programmatically would be much more). I've built a lot (including overnight huge 500%+ runs on massive bets), and then lost 90%+ of my portfolio in a matter of weeks (thank you 2018 crash), and have more carefully rebuilt from there.
4. Capital constraint isn't a primary issue right now. I'm looking at a few different mainstream projects. Had some nice runs with ADA, HBAR, BNB, and a few others. Top of mind today are DOT, ALGO, Radix (just like all of HF it seems), XMR, VET and others. Looking to consolidate into a few new small(ish) cap projects over the next few months.

What I'm looking for:

1. Exposure to small market cap projects with solid fundamentals. I don't need to know if a coin exists or not, I can look at CMC or 37 other sites to find small coins. Solid backers, solid team, solid fundamentals - that's what I need help finding.
2. People who are passionate about the crypto space (both in terms of long term impact and investment opportunity)
3. People who understand the different between value and perceived value as it relates to short and long term investment.
4. Finally, people with engineering / comp sci backgrounds who actually are comfortable looking under the hood at technical fundamentals, and who are open to sharing ideas.
5. Not critical for me, but I'm open to partnering on something in the crypto space - I have a market ideas I'm starting to build cases for, but in most cases my technical background is just not sufficient to either complete the research or build a prototype. What would take me a week, someone smart could do in an hour.

What I don't want:

1. My username may be "crypto_kid", but I don't want noobs who can't tell the difference between a DENT or SNOVIO coin and XMR.
2. People who talk a big game and can't back it up. I don't want to hear from the "lambo" kid who has $100 to their name, got lucky on one bet and now has $200, claiming they're a fugging genius. I know it because I used to be that guy.
3. Dependent thinkers - people who look at newsfeed, assume it's right, and start recommending bs based on "general" consensus

Questions for you:

1. What type of group are you creating here, what's the purpose?
2. How're you structuring the conversation?
3. What are you expecting from participants?
4. What're the benefits of joining?
5. How would you answer your own qualification questions?

Thanks,
ck

1. Idea generation for mid/long-term holdings, trading improvement on short-term news-driven plays, and general discussion that isn't herd mentality plays.

2. There's a minimum requirement of 1 unique idea per fortnight that's shared in our subforum. Can't be something publicly discussed on the public forum here and there's a set format to structure ideas.

3. Same as 2, the main thing I'm looking for is people who don't follow the crowd/have critical thought.

4. Exposure to the idea generation process. Anyone can go at it alone, but there's only so much research one person can do in a day, so this is just to help people filter trading ideas to get rid of the 90% of the garbage that's out there.

Quote:Have you deployed your own trading algorithm (not someone else's product) in live markets with real capital? Yes

Quote:Do you have investments in more than three different crypto ecosystems/chains? Yes, have substantial holdings in VET, multiple tokens on AVAX, and some core ERC-20 holdings.

Quote:Have you made more than 5x in the last 3 months? No due to the portfolio drag on my VET and ERC-20 holdings, however, the active part of my portfolio has done about a 3x (mostly the AVAX plays).

Thanks for the reply and congrats on the 3x in 3ish months. The group sounds great and I appreciate your structure. I'd be interested in trying it out if there's room. I'm unable to send messages since this is my 2nd thread response and HF seems to require 10 before DMs are allowed.

Thank you for the message - I still can't respond without posting 10 times. I'll try to work around it / weigh in in a couple of other places. I can read your message though, in case there's another medium we can use to touch base. I have a discord somewhere and can obviously email and such.

At what point do accounts get closed/groups taken if inactive?

I think there is a prune to inactive accounts. But it's years after last activity I believe.
So not gonna happen anytime soon.

Depends on a few things, pruned acc is a no as that takes a very long time, however he is eligible whenever Omni decides unless discussed before his departure. I'm personally on team Neal is in prison for tax evasion but that's just me.

Keep the group small and best of luck to you. HF needs some good group leaders.

FYI Neal Caffrey is inactive for almost a year now.
Hopefully he's ok.

Going well - was focussed on other things, thanks for the kind words though!
