Thread: Unactive telegram group with 8k, how to monetize it ?

Basilisk - September 22, 2021, 8:46 am

So I got an unactive group with 8k people in it, used it before to leak OF pics with PPC service (linkvertise) .

Should I just keep up with it, or switch niche?

Maybe should I sell it?

Don't have a clue so any advice is appreciated.

I would scrape more people into it and continue the niche or make a new one.

idk sell it and then make people new admins

If it's inactive then you already know that it's virtually useless.

I'd definitely sell it if I were you.

ummm do you think selling it as is will do, or should I make it a bit active before?

Also, what's the price for such a group?

Well honestly I think it's only worth it if you're going to make it a little active first it's not hard to scrape and clone groups etc the reason people pay for groups instead of doing that is because there being an active community.

Price wise I don't really know for that niche as I've only dealt with crypto groups.

if you usually push out file's than you can hide an RAT and sell logs for abit of money or even put a silent crypto miner inside of it, i dont know how that would work because telegram is a mobile service but it does also have a desktop so it would take a bit of thinking to find wich one would be more profitable.

Well you should see what the biggest segment in the groupchat is. Are there a lot of people who want to make money? Are they after a particular goal? By understanding your consumers you can find the best ways to monetize them.

I'd start a marketplace or somesort.

milowilliams567 - September 27, 2021, 8:50 pm

Short answer: you can't. What are you going to do with inactive followers?

Idk what unactive means, but if you mean inactive then there's not much you can really monetize until you bring the activity back up
