

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: UK based, do I HAVE to take Amazon gift cards in pounds? And have a co.uk account?

Rinkydinkdink - September 25, 2021, 3:52 pm

I'm UK based, i was considering using Proton VPN with a USA ip and sign up that way to Amazon, but I'm thinking maybe it would be better to not use a VPN considering there could be blacklisted ips and cause issues for me. Do I have to make a UK account? And only take £? Customers will be approx 75% USA, 25% UK, so I'm not clear on how US buyers would work...? I want to just favour dollars if I can, as £ cards are harder to sell to the exchangers here.....I'm wondering if buying some good residential US proxies would solve the problem...Or if a US VPN account would suffice

Thanks in advance everyone

Marketplace - September 26, 2021, 3:45 am

Don't know why nobody replied to this thread.

You can still accept US gift cards delivered to your email in order to sell them if you live in the UK.

Rinkydinkdink - September 26, 2021, 3:50 am

(Sep 26, 2021 03:45 AM)Marketplace Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Don't know why nobody replied to this thread.

You can still accept US gift cards delivered to your email in order to sell them if you live in the UK.
Awesome, thanks for replying and helping me out

(Sep 26, 2021 03:48 AM)Stephen Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I am UK based and I have used many different extensions of AGC just go to that domain example .com .de

Or you could just exchange the voucher for something else
Cool thanks for replying:)