It's a 2 year training course like , a formation.
And the exams are face to face also 1 of my exams is to complete a complete transit(import/export) folder for a former company so that will take atleast 2 months of unpaid work with them ?????

Good luck man!

Xd i translated it from the french word "conteneurisation" and it means calculating the cargo shipping container freight and quantity..

Thanks anyways ?

I was able to go for 90% but i wasn't concentrated enough.

My year has ended now bcz today was the most difficult exam

I'll start searching a former company now to do my internship .

International trade is a good domain and surely important in this time

Best of luck for your exams.

It's an international trade diploma which provides

Marketing

Logistics

Financial management

International transport

We have like 1000 books related to these subjects.

And it is a government college

Sleep helps with memory, not being well rested would be detrimental to health and overall performance on exams. I think resting would be beneficial in the long run here.

True sleep improves memory .

I read about that studying at night is better because when you sleep everything will be saved correctly during sleep in your brain.

But every doctor and specialist advises us to get between 5 and 7 hours sleep average
