He was offering discounts on the website and I thought it looked cool, I messaged the user and got this as a response

I thought this was weird to begin with due to the fact if you go to there site till this day it says this

Me being dumb I went to the site because the features looked really nice and I have yet to see them anywhere else bought directly off of there website

I got the week package for Modern Warfare

Payment page has shown(Payment Received) For countless days now without anything happening

They have a tawk.to chat there that is NEVER online so I have sent around 4 emails now without responses.

I have messaged the user here asking him what is going on here is the convo and then being ignored

Here is the blockchain to show it has more then enough confirmations

Here is also a pic of them

The only vouch the guy has is by ONE new member that doesn't look reputable at ALL

Everyone else says they have been ignored as well

Then digging into it I found some more reviews online

Calling someone out for a fake review

Here is some more reviews from trustpilot

Not too sure what is going on here but I think it is PRETTY clear, Be careful guys!

FlawlessAim.com is still actively scamming people for cheats. I've been seeing them posted in user's signatures here on HackForums in the past few weeks, with their usernames to add as promo codes... I'm unsure if there is any correlation between the scamming and this but those who purchase "cheats" or "hacks" from FlawlessAim.com via Cryptocurrency are not receiving what they paid for (many instances per this site). One of my very best friends was just recently cheated by them, and asked if I had heard of them. I searched on HF and saw two posts, one from Skrill and the one I branch cited above. Skrill was selling their services (not sure of affiliation), but the thread and service seems to now be closed. But I know that I have seen it in user signatures recently. It seems FlawlessAim.com was once a reputable website, but after a banwave they were unable to continue but kept their site open for sales without a service to provide. (They are even updating their sales dates to make it seem as if they are an active service) After seeing a review on a third party site when researching FlawlessAim.com more in depth, it had mentioned that the support chat will reply to new users about sales but not those who have already paid and been scammed/gone without the service they paid for. We did a little test and did confirm this is true.

While the service is not directly being offered on HF anymore per my research, the site is still being shared around and is actively scamming people, so I advise that you deal with caution.

I would be genuinely curious if anyone is actively 'using this service' right now as well, considering there were those sharing the site in their signatures here, while the majority do not receive what they pay for.

No problem.

I just hope no one has gotten scammed from HF with the site having been going around again recently. At least this will be another recent thread that shows up if anyone researches before buying so they can double check themselves before dealing.

User Skrill is advertising a product under a thread and uses the pronoun "they" as though he isn't supposed to be responsible for negligent software that is falsely advertised? I'm not a FPS person, but thank you for posting and making aware of this user. I will not ever think about purchasing from anyone who acts like user Skrill. It's almost like Skrill doesn't want to take any responsibility for scamming people.

Yeah I hate to assume but that's what everything is leaning towards, isn't it?

I'm Stanley HF's helper bot. The OP (original poster) of this thread wants everyone to see this page and has elected to bump it to the top of the showthread listing. Since HF doesn't want a ton of LQP (Low Quality Posts) this is the best method of bumping your content. There is a small ?yte fee for each bump. Any OP can bump any of their threads on HF from the linked icon on the top of their first post.

If you haven't already read the first post of this thread we encourage you to do so.

Thanks,
Stanley
