Thread: Which famous artist/band have you seen live?

device - October 12, 2021, 4:29 pm

There's nothing like a live show, the biggest one I've seen was Coldplay in a huge stadium in France back in 2012.

It was a great experience, such a positive energy all around.

Have you ever seen your favorite artist live? What are some bands you've seen or shows you have been on and what was it like?

blackrose_x0x0 - October 12, 2021, 5:06 pm

I grew up listening to classic rock and got the chance to see AC/DC with Brian Johnson, Van Halen with David Lee Roth, and Guns N Roses with Axl Rose all live this past decade. Seeing them live in person was better than I imagined them to be. All 3 of these bands totally rocked it out even though none of them were in their prime anymore.

Dripstur - October 12, 2021, 5:28 pm

I have actually never been to a concert or anything. Not really sure who I would want to actually see live but definitely need to go for the experience

Lindros - October 12, 2021, 5:29 pm

The last one I saw was Tool. They put on a great performance live.

TB12 - October 12, 2021, 5:35 pm

I've been lucky to go to many concerts thanks to my dad growing up, my favorite has definitely been Green Day. Saw them in Texas back in 2017, and in NYC last August when they were doing shows with Weezer and Fall Out Boy. Fall Out Boy had to bail on the show though at the last minute because a team member of the band tested positive for COVID. I came for Green Day though so it didn't matter to me much in the end even though I like Fall Out Boy. I felt really bad though for this girl sitting next to us, she came all the way for Fall Out Boy and she was crying :/

Sigma - October 12, 2021, 5:37 pm

Saw a Dave Matthews band concert only cause my friend paid for it.

Pikzul - October 12, 2021, 5:38 pm

I really haven't seen any actually; that kind of just dawned on me.

Scoppa - October 12, 2021, 6:23 pm

I saw Ice Cube in live. That was FXCKING dope. Everyone in the crowd was smoking weed. I'm not fucking joking.

Prettykitty - October 12, 2021, 6:43 pm

I have not been to any big band events, not a fan, most of them are way too loud.

Monero-chan - October 12, 2021, 7:11 pm

I just realized that I've never been to a live concert before, I should definitely go see one.

Tableshaker - October 12, 2021, 7:17 pm

I have seen lil uzi and post malone

Beherit - October 12, 2021, 7:19 pm

I've seen Lil Wayne & Wiz Khalifa live at the same 4/20 concert in Denver, Colorado.

Maxorg - October 12, 2021, 7:32 pm

I haven't seen any major performances live, but I would like to see DA Baby, Cardi B, Migos, Lil Durk, or even Doja Cat.

shakur123 - October 12, 2021, 8:39 pm

Richard Ashcroft and it is the best one btw, also michael jackson, tiesto, calvin harris, and other local bands of my country

Nostre - October 12, 2021, 8:44 pm

Never been to a live show but I would've loved to see King Von perform so the closest thing of getting to him would be Lil Durk who is also one of my favorite artist.

Edit:

Woah, I received a egg. Awesome.

Louis Vuitton - October 12, 2021, 11:04 pm

Saw good Charollette not to big nowadays but they were neat

FinanceMan901 - October 12, 2021, 11:09 pm

A bunch of edm artist and rappers like excision, flux pavilion, dj diesel (shaq), grizz, marshmellow, Jaden smith, cardi b, illenium, future, lil uzi vert, g eazy, rick ross, lil Wayne, benny the butcher, wiz khalifa, hippie sabotage, French Montana, etc. I'm definitely forgetting some big names.

I've been to a lot of music festivals which make up for the artist. I've seen plenty of people live.

shitmaster - October 12, 2021, 11:12 pm

Never seen any. Potentially not in this lifetime. Haha. I'll try to go to some concert once things settle. I should make it happen at least once.

I've seen a lot of rappers/ bans/ dj's live at several festivals.

The biggest being Mac Miller, Wiz Khalifa, Kendrick Lamar, Big Sean, Waka Flocka Flame, Flatbush Zombies, Snoop Dogg, Eminem, Rihanna.

These guys are all great showman, my best friend loves Flatbush Zombies. He went to see them in France and said it was the best show he'd ever seen.

I actually saw Rihanna at a Coldplay concert as she sang Princess of China, she's beautiful and so talented!

She's known to be late arriving on stage. My mum saw Amy Winehouse, and she was completely wasted, couldn't get one note right ?

An Amy Winehouse concert sure would've been nice to see to be honest.

Harry styles, Mac miller, kid cudi, ritz, Sam Lachow, tech n9ne & strange music since I've been older might be missing a few.

I went to see Natasha Bedingfield, Flo Rida, Cascada, Pitbull, Jesse McCartney, Danity Kane, and Ray J & T-Pain. When I won tickets when I was younger

Are you planning to go again?

To be honest the music was great, but I went with two friends and one of them was stuck on a bad trip for the whole three days. He got completely paranoid and thought me and my friend wanted to rape him (we slept in the same tent). Luckily I befriended a group of people that was next to us, they lent me a tent and guarded me at night ? These guys/girls were literal gods.

My "friend" sharpened wooden sticks and went around unzipping people's tents trying to find me, I could hear zips being untied followed by screams.

My other friend said he would've poked me if he had found me.

The most nerve-wrecking thing was that the tent they lent me was right next to his, and it's the only one he didn't think of opening.

I have to say that the way back on the bus was the most awkward situation I have ever been in.

The greatest one I have been to, must be Metallica, Guns & Roses or Mega Death.
The biggest was by far Coldplay, no idea how they can fill up that many people for their concerts.
The wildest, was by far Slayer, they are insane. Almost like Among Amarth (Viking Metal) ?

Wait Slipknot and Rammstein is also bad-shit crazy.

I absolutely love 80s rock and metal and ya I don't know many that listen to that music anymore. That era of music holds a special spot for me when I was a teenager really getting into music and playing guitar as it helped shape me into who I am today if that makes sense.

Stevie Ray Vaughan is in my top 3 guitarists of all time and it is quite sad how he and so many others of that time died so young. From SRV to Hendrix to Kurt Cobain to Randy Rhoads, it is all such a shame. At least we still have their music which will continue to live on.

Some of them were simply because I went with a girlfriend or friends but here's a few:

The Killers
Escape the Fate
Falling in Reverse
Avenged Sevenfold
Atreyu
The Used
Mac Miller
Many local artists from where I live
Hollywood Undead
Akon and Rihanna
T-Pain

The Killers was my first concert ever so that's some amazing memories.

But my favorite would be Escape the Fate. I love Ronnie Radke (he was the singer back then) and his vocals were absolutely amazing.

How was the Pink Floyd experience?

I was only 14 at that time and I couldn't see anything because I was too short other than a bed they had fly in the sky and a patched gang member grabbed my breast as I walked by and without thinking I just instinctively slapped him and he hit me in the back of the head but not hard and then I managed to duck and run through a bunch of people but I still couldn't see anything.

But ironically at the David Bowie concert a patched gang member just randomly ordered everyone to get out of my way because I was short and so I got to be right at the front (they were both outdoor open air concerts and I was in the second row and I was crushed but i didn't care becasue I really loved him and I got to see everything!

Oh I also went to U2 not super into them but they're still pretty good again I couldn't really see at that open air concert.

Eminem had screens so I could see the screens even if I could only see him as like an aunt on stage. All the good tickets sell out to scalpers too fast. David Bowie, Tori Amos and Eminem were the ones where I was super crazy happy to be there. Simon and Garfunkle was cool too but I was only 12 and actually I didn't really go see them I was in the park with my parents behind the stadium listening. lol Oh I forgot my parents also took me to see Bob Dylan when I was 13 so that was my first concert and Pink FLoyd was the first one I went to with friends.

Lol this all sounds like I'm young and I'm not at all. Just a lot were when I was young except all the rap ones were when I was older as I weirdly really got into rap only in my 30s.

Have you ever seen your favorite artist live? What are some bands you've seen or shows you have been on and what was it like?

Lordi and Rammstein :)

I recently went and saw Shwayze at the hard rock, I listened to "corona and lime" as a youngin, the live show was cool. Dude was pouring tequilla into the crowds mouth lmao. Good food, lexa terrestrial opened and a beat boxer named NAPOM from PGH.

When I was a young teenager, I actually saw Bill Cosby performing standup live at a local college before his sexual assault allegations became public.

My first ever concert was The Who when I was 12 years old. However, the best famous artist that I have ever been able to see live was Robert Plant, was incredible. His Led Zeppelin vocals killed it and his subtle jokes poking at REO Speedwagon were too funny.

SG?

Unfortunately this was just Plant, doing a solo tour with one of his projects at the time.
