Windows 11 Released

Microsoft had previously stated that Windows 10 would be the final version of the most popular operating system. Windows, representing a whopping 71 percent share of the PC, tablet, and console market. However, Windows 11 is taking the world by storm with its brand new features, such as app snapping, creating custom windows layouts, a revamped Microsoft Store, and future support for running Android applications natively. Bugs have been reported, some users having trouble upgrading to the latest version, the start menu not functioning correctly, or a decrease in performance of up to 15% on machines using AMD processors. You can upgrade to Windows 11 for free from Windows 10. >>Source

Netflix Gaming

Netflix has just announced the acquisition of Night School Studio, the game developer and publisher that created OXENFREE. Netflix is making ad-free licensed and original mobile games for subscribers, allowing them to play their favorite characters from films or series available on the platform for free. This expansion represents the company's most significant advance in a new kind of entertainment since it began streaming in 2007. The Twitter account Netflix Geeked stated that Netflix games were already available on Android phones in Poland, Spain, and Italy. Two of these games being Stranger Things 1984 and Stranger Things 3: The Game. What Netflix series would you like to see adapted into a video game? >>Source

Twitch Hacked

On Tuesday, October 5, a hacker declared to have stolen sensitive information from the streaming platform. He claimed to have in his possession some of the site's source code, SDKs, the history of payments made to streamers, and unreleased software and tools used by the company's security team. He also said that other data had been stolen and that the information released is only the "first part." Passwords have not been leaked, even though some users were asked to change theirs following the data breach. These events follow weeks of protests for twitch to improve its service, the main reason being the lack of action against bot-driven "hate raids." >>Source

Another great edition Hydra

Congratulations to Xerotic on the new group.

I wonder who Fi?is tried blackmailing to receive that ban?

Louis Vuitton - October 19, 2021, 10:01 pm

Aw sad to see daily posts are down I thought they would be up with everyone tryna get the halloween award

Not sure, but BaloonsAreFun got a closure on the 16th, wonder why he's not on here?

Jinu - October 19, 2021, 10:19 pm

After a long time reading the HF news. Not know that I could post the Sportsbook award.

Bastille - October 20, 2021, 12:55 am

I expected to see more posts because of the Octoberfest award, the average is less than last year ?

Thanks for the news Hydra, good job as always :)

No, I sent as gift the intagram bot I bought to a trash seller on HF.

What an ironic forum.

Scammers can walk around quietly and continue to pollute the forum, while professional vendors like me get banned in record time for sharing a tool from a scam.
