Thread: I need friends who talk about money, making money and achieving success.

kookur - October 21, 2021, 6:57 am

All my friends are busy doing nothing and just living an average Joe life where they just eat, sleep and repeat. I am in the same boat myself but i wanna go up from here and get out of my comfort zone.

If you wanna discuss about making money online, about crypto or about anything. Please hit me up and we should talk and get to know each other more.

Geass - October 21, 2021, 7:00 am what exactly can you discuss about money?

think an idea and make it happen, the most simple method :)

Juoku - October 21, 2021, 7:29 am

Are you basically looking for friends who you could grow with and execute all kinds of money making plans? because otherwise you can just stay with your group of friends and just make money using whatever ideas you can come up with.

If you aren't a person who takes initiative, it'll be hard to do it even with people who talk about making money and such, unless you got someone IRL who'll get you motivated.

Also like stated above, you could always join a money-oriented group / crew and talk to the people there, sometimes just joining a group can help you grow significantly and you'll end up finding like-minded people there :)

maybe I'm wrong but I think it just wants to find a method or hints.

Pikzul - October 21, 2021, 7:31 am

Sheesh, trust me, I need the same friends.

You defo are in the right place, check out the different sections dedicated to what you want and consider joining a group with this focus.

shakur123 - October 21, 2021, 7:33 am

Well knowing that you need new friends and new goals is the first step to a great success, as others had stated you can explore HF and look for the subjects that you are interested. Good luck on your journey OP!!

I mean, he says he needs friends who talk about money and such, I'm guessing he wants like-minded people to start a business with and make money or something like that..

Just a guess tho lol

Tor - October 21, 2021, 7:48 am

You are the sum of your 5 most closest friends. What they do you might end up doing as well. So I suggest you make some distance from them and find some other people that do what you want to do.

money section got the brokest people out there

Kaiba Corp - October 21, 2021, 8:00 am

Pretty much... But I think only influencing ONE to step up his game will be life changing

Eran - October 21, 2021, 8:03 am

I couldn't have worded it better myself. I'm in the EXACT same boat as you :|

Trev - October 21, 2021, 8:03 am deff look into a solid crew, most of the successful groups have discords where they discuss exactly what you're looking for.

Exactly this, I need like minded people who are hungry for betterment. Touchwood and great thanks to God that I've already come a long way from where I was both physically and financially but I hit a major break due to my mental illness, I'm kinda in recovery now. All I have is one friend irl who is 22 but doesn't want to do anything with his life and just living on his parent's money. He has no goals nothing just plain and simple eat and sleep regime.

I need a team to make things work, Steve jobs didn't make the Macintosh by himself but Steve Wozniak and the others did it. He wouldn't have come this far if he didn't have the team. I don't have anyone who motivates or asks me "Hey buddy wanna join me in this gig?" All I've achieved this far is by myself but I know it's not possible to achieve great success without a great team. So I'm kinda looking for people who wanna hang with like minded people and I keep many things to myself so I know most of the groups here won't take me in looking my post history and I don't like paying to get in a group or crew.

Baby - October 21, 2021, 8:14 am

I notice a few pals younger than me at work have been saying this type of thing. A lot of people wanting to be surrounded by others who actually have passion for goals, want to be something etc.

I think it's essential. You simply can't put a flower in a bed of weeds and expect the flower to take over, the weeds will consume it.

Or as a cliché "you're a product of your environment", to prosper you need to obtain and surround yourself with good energy.

I hope you find some people like that in person OP, if not I'm sure there are many online and on HF who strive for better.

Here on Hack Forums is a good start! I recommend catering your social media feeds to business / investing related material.

Dorrance - October 21, 2021, 8:20 am

If you need crypto or money moves hit me up

False King - October 21, 2021, 8:26 am

People already gave enough advice on how to get into some money-making places on here. I just wanted to highlight that there's a difference between your career ambitions and your friends. Don't mix your personal life with your finances. There's a difference between business partners and friends.

It's also kind of weak to blame this on your friends. You're the one who defines yourself. Most of my friends are into farming, yet, I'm not a farmer myself. Stop blaming others or your social circle, do the work yourself if you want to make money.

Gotcha!

Yin Yang - October 21, 2021, 9:45 am

I kinda feel the same too, just tryna stack

Dog. - October 21, 2021, 11:57 am

HF is a great place to find that! I will say just because it's a public forum a lot of the bag chasers have far less of a pure and genuine interest in bettering themselves and honing skills, but there are just as many members you can learn plenty from.

Michael - October 21, 2021, 11:59 am

Online or irl?

I believe groups like this exist.

My advice would be to try and be active in the money sections of the forum.

One of the biggest things is try and get accepted into a group, either by application or buy-in.

There's tons of resources for making money within the forum, you could even sell a product through here.

I am always looking to learn esp with crypto, I am a complete noob thou so if it's experience you'd like I'm not the guy haha

Kittenz4life - October 22, 2021, 10:06 pm

felt this. all of my "friends" are just stuck in the partying phase 24/7 even though we are all pushing 30. shit is just old and in the end youre stuck with no accomplishments

(Oct 22, 2021 10:07 PM)Lowkey Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Make a discord or something I'm down for this I second this.

I have a small friend group, many are set on living the "American dream" of purchasing a house, car and having a job. I disagree with this. This system was built on keeping people in debt IMO. I believe wealth comes from a mindset change and learning financial literacy as majority of us were never taught this. Having a small group with like-minded individuals will help a lot, even if you're doing separate things. I do keep everything to myself because I dislike any negativity when it comes to discussing someone elses' dreams and goals. I believe everyone and anyone can become wealthy if they truly wanted to. Some may have head starts and an early mentor but like most of us, we don't and we struggle on this lonely journey of success.

Apologizes for the rant, if a discord was to be created, count me in.

Appreciate it. After getting laid off early 2020 and realizing one source of income isn't enough, I had to make a lifestyle change. I got tired of living paycheck to paycheck and hated the fact that my "boss" controlled whether or not my bills will be paid this month.

Nate - October 23, 2021, 1:38 am

There's a couple groups that revolve around these topics, achievers is a good one
