Thread: Launching a weed delivery business

FakeTrumpTweetsiOSApp - October 26, 2021, 12:15 pm

Thoughts on a weed delivery business. I'm in New York where recreational marijuana was finally legalized and we've found a loophole while they work on the laws to "gift" it with the purchase of another item. I'm curious if folks would want to sign up as an independent seller in any of the legal states and manage their own product and delivery within their own legal state. Check it out below:

That's a pretty good idea imo, I know that in California there are a few delivery services but I do see how this could work well worldwide anywhere they sell weed in a legal way

fenompls - October 26, 2021, 1:23 pm

The website is taking awfully long to load. :|

That's awesome! I had a batch in NY called black Jesus and it was nice shakur123 - October 26, 2021, 2:00 pm

Same here i would use it but the web page dont work that well

Eran - October 26, 2021, 2:12 pm

That's a good idea, I'd say go for it and report back to tell us how it went :)

Pikzul - October 26, 2021, 2:14 pm

I say its a hella good idea lol

I actually was thinking about doing something similar to this, but using an App since nearly all people these days have smartphones especially the potheads lol imagine an App like GoPuff (i actually personally know the owners of GoPuff i grew up with them) but for ordering weed, tobacco products (blunts, papers, etc), glass pieces, etc. they actually already have App's like this in certain states, i believe Washington D.C is one of them. So I'm 100% certain that an App like that for here in Philadelphia would be very very successful!

Maxorg - October 26, 2021, 2:31 pm

That's actually a really great idea. First time hearing of it as well.

FakeTrumpTweetsiOSApp - October 26, 2021, 3:12 pm

Man thank you all for the great feedback. I'm not sure how to speed up the load time for the site as I'm still adding products and such. I'll be on this and certainly update you guys.

In?sane? - October 26, 2021, 3:20 pm

Cool idea, I wish you luck with your project.

Kittenz4life - October 26, 2021, 3:24 pm

That's actually a good idea. I'd really work on the presentation and the way you go about it. I think it would be a hit.

LeetSpeed - October 26, 2021, 3:40 pm

Nice I wish your endeavors work well.

FakeTrumpTweetsiOSApp - October 26, 2021, 4:14 pm

Thanks again folks. I'm gonna tighten things up on the site asap. My favorite is normally sour diesel in terms of smoke but here in NY we have some extremely good smoke that comes through. I'm also setting up a delivery drivers in legal states if anyone is interested however you'd be responsible for getting your own product and delivery of course but could use our site as a hub.

Proxied - October 26, 2021, 5:08 pm

I know when I visited California, some did this. I find it a great idea.

FakeTrumpTweetsiOSApp - October 26, 2021, 5:31 pm

In New York marijuana is legal however they're still working on all the laws so as of right now we have to sell a product and then gift the marijuana as a loophole. I've cornered the market first in my area big time. Appreciate all the positive vibes.

Nate - October 26, 2021, 5:33 pm

In California they are orettt successful, I'm sure it will be in New York especially if you can find an out of state plug and not pay NY prices

Regulus - October 26, 2021, 5:34 pm

Insanely brilliant idea to be honest.

That'll make your customers loyal af haha.

Wish it was legalized here in Sweden as well :/

This is true. I have several plugs both in state and out of state with several different strains, wax, carts, etc. My main concern were the laws loophole and website. Lol

LolYou would have to see what are the parameters in opening a medical dispensary, could just be an online shop in pretty sure that's how it is here in Cali, as well when I was in Arizona , you would just have to have the customer send a pic of like the ID and there medical card

Louis Vuitton - October 26, 2021, 9:45 pm

Monero-chan - October 26, 2021, 11:15 pm

TB12 - October 27, 2021, 1:56 am

This is very cool, I live in NYC so I'll give this a shot sometime for shits and giggles

Bastille - October 27, 2021, 2:05 am

This obviously had to happen one day since weed is legalized in a country/state

Imagine being at a party, didn't buy to smoke, just order on your smartphone, and that's all, no need to leave the party fenompls - October 27, 2021, 2:06 am

May as well add cookies and snacks on the site.

As of right now the loophole is good to go. Soon as they create the actual licenses and permits to do this 100% legal I will of course abide by the law. As of this moment these don't even exist and it's been said that New York state will be fumbling around on all the laws for this business model into late 2022.

You may also see a lot of crimes connected to marijuana-induced psychosis in my signature.

Now, have you got the study which says cannabis does not cause any mental illness? Marijuana itself doesn't cause addiction. Repetition causes addiction, which was a prior choice. That specific crime that's linked in your signature, "The court heard the defendant had suffered from mental health problems throughout his life and at 17 was sectioned and diagnosed with psychosis related to cannabis use." Do you know all of the suspect's family history of any prior mental illnesses? I'm sure cannabis promoted the mental illnesses that he already had prior to smoking. It simply does not CAUSE it. It's ALREADY there.

Quote:Drugs such as cocaine, cannabis, and hallucinogens can worsen symptoms of existing mental illnesses, whilst taking such substances for a long period of time can also see you develop symptoms of psychosis, including paranoia.

This has been proven multiple times that there are possibilities of mental illnesses worsening with cannabis. You're basically saying all marijuana users will eventually turn into criminals due to the repetition of smoking.

Quote:Many people report using marijuana to cope with anxiety, especially those with social anxiety disorder. THC appears to decrease anxiety at lower doses and increase anxiety at higher doses.

Could your argument be that users who accumulate more THC are at high risk of causing crimes rather than users who monitor the amount they intake? You're stating that all cannabis users have the potential to commit a crime without knowing all users' prior medical history.

Quote:Fife added that the study does not show the extent of the participants' marijuana use, outside of their diagnosis for cannabis use disorder.

"I wouldn't say it's a risk factor, but it could be an aggravator of the disorder," Fife said. "If it's true that it reduces the function of the hippocampus, it could in theory make the memory a little worse, but Alzheimer's is much more complicated than just memory."

Are you even reading the articles you're listing? I don't think you are honestly.

Can you not read? It quite clearly says, "Diagnosed with psychosis related to cannabis use." Having a genetic predisposition only increases your chances of becoming mentally ill through cannabis, it's not a requirement. Even if it were, you said you cannot get mentally ill by cannabis, how the fuck is everyone supposed to know if they have a genetic predisposition? You could be the first in your family born with a defective gene.

I'm not saying they will all become criminals, but the majority will likely develop a mental illness, and it drastically increases your risk of committing crime. The link in my signature includes thousands of cases not just the one.

The more marijuana you smoke the more likely you are to become psychotic and commit crime. The fact most people smoke marijuana prior to legalisation shows they already have developed a tendency to disregard the law.

This is just a baseless assertion. You're avoiding the central question and failing to provide this source which backs up your claim that it causes no mental illness.

I could even go so far as to grant you the lack of causality, but the correlation is certainly there. Scientists haven't reached an absolute consensus and you're willing to experiment on the masses. Risking repeating the same mistakes as alcohol and tobacco "legalisation" only with even worse side effects.

Let me rephrase the question, so that you can't avoid it:

How could the owner of the store morally justify one of his customers developing schizophrenia because he was unaware he had a predisposition?

Many dispos in legal states are starting to offer delivery themselves if they dont via weedmaps or dutchie. p cool.

Ya it looks like that's pretty much the new norm. The way they have them set up now you can't really go into most dispos and smell the weed its all in pre packaged jars. Makes sense to just order it.

Oh in OR that happened when COVID took full effect. If ever, I'm sure you could walk right in if things went back to normal and get a smell.
