

Forum: Hack Forums

Thread: few small related discord servers ive been in are dying

QuestionAsker95 - November 8, 2021, 2:48 am theyre related to me as in there are(were) people like me so there was always some kind of connection going no matter how small so yeah my servers are getting like one message per few hours which means its dead, it was different before but people moved on or were banned or have no time in other servers, its just random mass of random messages from random people who have nothing in common with you kinda sad as they were slightly filling my social needs

i am alone again

?

Sogomn - November 8, 2021, 3:16 am

I really feel this man. I also prefer the smaller communities where you actually know the people and don't have to read through 1k messages to catch up.

Unfortunately small servers are usually bound to die unless someone actively finds new members.

Irritable - November 8, 2021, 3:22 am

(Nov 8, 2021 04:16 AM)Sogomn Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I really feel this man. I also prefer the smaller communities where you actually know the people and don't have to read through 1k messages to catch up.

Unfortunately small servers are usually bound to die unless someone actively finds new members. Same.

The few Discord servers I do use have just the right amount of traffic.