Thread: Who wants a free business idea.

Mr. Robot - November 13, 2021, 2:02 am

So this is simple. I have a bit of time while I'm waiting on some shit to sort itself out.

Give me 3 things you enjoy as a hobby. (Top tier shit)

Give me 3 things you think you are good at.

Give me your realistic employment if you had to work a 9-5 for the rest of your life based on your skill set you currently have.

In return, I will reply with ideas to help you become an entrepreneur. If you have startup cash available include what you could scrape together.

I'll be in the background swoopin in on all these startups. Nah, sounds like a good thread and interested to see your business ideas.

NurSpec - November 13, 2021, 3:05 am

Good luck with this, sounds like a pretty good scheme you've got bro.

This is a pretty cool idea for those who don't know what to do.

Currently I'm doing a data analyst sort of role reporting to stakeholders with high value items (The company managers and maintains the UKs fibre network).

3 skills, I can build PCs to very high standard, I've probably built all my friends computers and provide trouble shooting etc.

I guess because of my job I can manipulate data.

I can't think of something meaningful right now but there's probably some other skill I can think of.

Crypto, Technology implementation & Recruitment for jobs.

Sales, Marketing & Educating others.

I am a dedicated person who can be working all day, but currently, I am selling technology platforms for Marketing departments in medium to enterprise sized businesses.

Looking forward to hearing what you have! ;)

I can't think of something meaningful right now but there's probably some other skill I can think of. Create a crypto guess and reward website where people guess the price of cryptocurrencies like 'betting' on the market and where it might be - the people within % range win bonuses and payouts.

If you get enough people guessing accurately you will fall into this category:

The "wisdom of crowds" refers to the result of a very specific process, where independent judgments are statistically combined (i.e., using the mean or the median) to achieve a final judgment with the greatest accuracy.

Would be an interesting website and you could offer more in-depth analysis for paying members to look at data from countries where people guess from and that kind of thing.

I have more ideas, but there's one to get the ball rolling. You could even offer custom PC builds for the monthly most accurate guessers. Take sponsorships from NFTs and other cryptos to promote them.

I enjoy working out and helping people. If I had to choose one realistic job I had to do for the rest of my life I would be a nurse. I could scrape together a few thousand dollars to invest into a business plan.

That's great man, helping people feels great knowing someone's life is just a little bit better. I wish you the best of luck w that.

I really enjoy computers and software, programming is a hobby of mine although I'm definitely not amazing at it. I also really enjoy social media and social websites like forums.

I think I'm a proficient salesman, and can sell products and services pretty easily in most cases. I can market products very well.

I am currently working a 9-5 at a retail job, and it drains the living hell out of me. I don't mind dealing with customers or entrepreneurial grinds whatsoever but working my ass off for $15/hr isn't going to be worth it for forever

Let me know if you have any ideas! I've been coming up with a couple of side projects lately (like an automated robux panel for easy side income) but I'm always open to the idea of a new one

Cheers!
