Big Baller Dinner Evening w. James & Jimmy

Intro:

It was a Thursday evening, aprox. around 7pm when I was dressing up to meet with [mention=2774521] and Velma - We had arranged a fine mans dinner, as James had just received the sickest airdrop from ENS. I was thinking we were going to split everything evenly, however, I would be surprised later this evening. I jumped on the tube and was representing Heresy with my scarf, traveling for just about 30 minutes before I would arrive at this fine establishment called "Goodman" located in Mayfair, London. Jimmy got impatient as he was already there, waiting for us, I was walking along the road as I was trying to scout the perfect place to smoke a fat joint, before the dinner, and I spotted a man that I thought I recognized, none the less, I continued my search for a smoking spot.

Jimmy announced his presence over Discord, meanwhile I was standing and smoking. I asked him to look behind him, and to my surprise, the man I recognized moments before, turned out to be Jimmy. Now we were just waiting for James. Some chit chat going on regarding wins and losses on crypto between Jimmy and I, before James magically turned up at 8:55pm as he stated, in his tank top it is freaking winter, and a big coat, that he claimed he was wearing for the first time.

We had a few awkward seconds figuring out who would go in the door first, however, we forced James to do it, as the reservation was in his name. I was high as fuck though, so I had to take a few moments to collect myself and pretend like everything was gucci. Upon entering the establishment, the atmosphere was splendid! Lots and lots of people, overcrowded for sure and with no where to sit except the bar. As we expected, we had to wait a few moments at the bar, before we could proceed to our dining table. I chose to have a beer, meanwhile James & Jimmy was sippin' on some water. Now it was time to dine!

Appetizer:

We got shown to our dining table, a small little round table, so we all could keep eye contact as much as possible, an intimate scenery, however, as Jimmy pointed out, the ceiling could do with some painting or decoration. However, a hot short lady would be our waiter for the evening, which we all would have happily slept with. The only weird thing about her though, was that she would say "thank you" approx. every 5th minute as she came to look after us. We ordered our first courses and James decided on getting a Non-Vintage Champagne Drappier, if I am not mistaking.

I do want to add, that James was very surprised to see that he actually had to manhandle his lobster, in order to fully enjoy it. ;)

Main Course:

After the delicious appetizers, it was time to move on to the main course. Our waitress came to our table to refill our glasses, while she thanked us, for her refilling our glasses. I think she wanted us. However, we had our discussions about HF and regarding various crypto topics as trading, NFTs, blockchains and more. Jimmy taunted us that he could try and put a trade in, however, he pussied out due to wifi problems within the establishment. I also made sure that we remembered to cheer together, I am unsure whether or not Jimmy and James does not know how to celebrate, however, it is extremely important to cheer with each other inbetween every course of the full meal. We enjoyed ourselves and kept the food coming.

Dessert:

Personally, I was completely filled up at this point and had to unbutton my pants, without Jimmy and James noticing, as they were becoming tighter and tighter. Too many carbs I guess, however, Jimmy & James was ready for dessert and got themselves a cookie dough sunday, if I am not mistaking. When they got it, I will admit that I got kind of jealous, however, it was too late and my stomach had to rest. All I could think of at that moment was a fat joint that would magically appear in my mouth. Yet, I had to wait.

Dessert for James & Jimmy *They got one each, they did not share:

Ending the evening:

As the night came to an end, we were all prepared to pull up our wallet and pay for the meal, we got the bill, which ended up being just about $402,45 - As I was slowly but surely pulling up my wallet, James decided to just go all in and pay for the ENTIRE MEAL! A great thanks to James for hustling hard in life, in order to provide such a generous experience for Jimmy and I. Please show him some respect, however, he still needs to learn how to decapitate a lobster.

I wanted the night to continue, so I offered that we could go to another bar or a strip club, however, James was not interested in me paying for his first dance, which I was very sad about. So we all went down into the tube, where James barely reached the last train, 30 seconds before it's departure. Jimmy and I went on the first tube together and went each our ways a few minutes later. When I arrived home, it was time to roll up and the picture below is an accurate presentation of how the rest of my evening went.

Me for the rest of the evening:

Sounds like a fun time. The food looks amazing, especially the dessert. I'm a heavy smoker but last time I went to a restaurant high as hell (on my last trip to Amsterdam) I started panicing and couldn't even take a bite of my food.

Nostre - November 13, 2021, 9:42 am

It all looks appetizing. I'm not a huge fan of seafood and even that looks amazing. Well deserved dinner and even a better description.

First of all, I am annoyed that [mention=2774521] didn't invite me. Second of all, looks too high class for me anyway. Third of all, AWESOME!
