If I understand what you're asking, this project is still very much real, and still in the initial buy phase or whatever it's called.

Last I checked coins were like 10c. Had like $100 worth of this stuff just in case it goes somewhere someday. Lots of people thought it was a scam at first, lots of rumors going around in the beginning, and there was a guy shilling it on HF some months ago who was associated with the Discreet team, but is no longer.

Was the first time I was that early to something in the crypto space though, so why the hell not?

Hi Dear,

I suggest some IDO (Initial DEX Offering) platforms that require a low investment. Here are a few options:

BSCPad: BSCPad is an IDO platform built on the Binance Smart Chain. It offers low-cost transactions and a low minimum investment of just $50.

TrustPad: TrustPad is another IDO platform that focuses on low entry costs for investors. It has a minimum investment of just $100, and it also offers staking rewards for its native token, TPP.

Poolz Finance: Poolz Finance is a cross-chain IDO platform that supports various blockchains, including Ethereum, Binance Smart Chain, Polygon, and others. It has a minimum investment of just $100.

DuckStarter: DuckStarter is a decentralized crowdfunding platform built on the Ethereum network. It has a low minimum investment of just $50 and supports both ERC-20 and BEP-20 tokens.

It's important to note that investing in IDOs can be risky, and it's essential to do your own research before investing. Make sure you understand the project, its team, and its goals before investing any money.
