So these guys caught my eye, especially now that they're going to offer IEO and they will offer debit cards for freelancers, which is exciting! I'm a freelancer myself and I'd like to see this happen in the blockchain world.. ??

There have been like 50 projects like that lol. They all fail as they never manage to solve the big problem: bring a balance of tasks/freelancers.

Is like every dorm CS student who thinks they can build a better Uber until they face the harsh difficulty of bringing an immediate balance of drivers/users.

Not saying this can't make money though, if anything the most retarded projects are the ones that have made me the most money this year, I'll look into it.
